18 TRUE BILLS RETURNED BY GRAND JURORS

2 Inmates Who Fled O. S. R. and Were Captured, Indicted for Auto Stealing.

'MAGIC MAN' ALSO CITED

Panel Recommends Elevator for Courthouse, Enlarged Jail Quarters for Women.

Eighteen indictments, eight of them secret, were returned shortly before noon today by the Richland county grand jury which had been in session since yesterday morning.

The defendants will be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston at 4:30 p. m. Monday following a session of the petit jury that day, Clerk of Courts Fred R. Zellner said.

Frank Grigsby and James Mayer, Mansfield reformatory inmates who escaped several weeks ago and were captured in Dayton, were named in indictments for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Grigsby and Mayer who have been held in the county jail since they were captured, were accused of stealing a car in Mansfield to flee to Dayton.

Named In Secret Bill.

Roscoe Kauffman, 42, of Elyria, the "Magic man" who allegedly obtained $15 from Bellville merchants last October in a Halloween hoax, was secretly indicted for obtaining money under false pretense, it was understood.

Kauffman was brought here Tuesday from Wooster where he had served a 60-day jail term for the same offense. He was not indicted openly, it was learned, because the case was not submitted to the jury as a bind-over from a court. The indictment was to be served on him late today.

The jury recommended the installation of an elevator in the courthouse and enlarged quarters for women at the county jail. Both recommendations had been made by previous juries and county commissioners have announced the elevator will be installed when funds are available.

Others indicated by the jury and the charges against them are:

Henderson Inman and Bernard Milligan, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent; Willie Gaines, colored, and E. C. Hughes, cutting with intent to wound; William Lawler, forgery; John Ickes, robbery; Wilson Weaver and William Earl Glick, non-support.

The jury refused to indict Mike Jeftinich who had been cited for assault with intent to rape.

Two of the secret indictments, it was understood, were for non-support and the others were second indictments against defendants who were named on open charges.

Gable And Lombard Missing

(By International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD—Clark Gable, the screen hero, and his beautiful wife, Carole Lombard, (shown above) were reported missing "somewhere in Mexico," today.

They were believed to be camping near the Hamilton ranch, close to Ensenada, Baja California, but studio spokesmen said that Otto Winkler, studio press representative, and a cameraman failed to locate them in an aerial flight over the region yesterday.

No great alarm was felt for the popular film couple, however, as Gable told studio officials that he and Carole had planned to do a little camping while on their hunting trip. They were believed to be traveling in a station wagon which Carole recently gave to Gable.

The area in which Gable and Miss Lombard were supposed to be has been violently storm-swept in the past two days.

Although a highway runs directly from the border station at Tijuana to Ensenada and is fairly well populated, the surrounding country is a rough and desolate wilderness.

There was a possibility that the station wagon driven by the actor may have slipped off one of the rain-sodden clay roads, but studio officials felt that the couple had not met with any trouble, but had merely "holed up" in some isolated spot until weather conditions improved, or were camping by an out-of-the way water hole.

"I know Gable can take care of his wife and himself, too," Winkler told the studio.

Trucks Haul Water As Wells Go Dry In River Communities

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Many cities and villages in the Ohio river basin today faced a limited water supply, the latest weather creation after one of the coldest January's on record.

The shortage was keenly felt in some communities. Frozen and broken mains necessitated hauling water in Beckley, W. Va., and Covington, Ky.

Officials of Parkersburg urged sparing use as the supply in city wells diminished.

Dry cisterns forced residents of Sherrard, near Wheeling, to depend on tank trucks. Water shortages were less serious in Henderson and Hopkinsville, Ky., Salem and New Martinsville, W. Va.

Health officers in Kentucky and West Virginia warned against the increased possibility of contamination. With mains broken over a wide area in Covington, residents were asked to use the utmost caution in handling fires.

Accuse News Correspondent of Violating Army Code by 'Slanderous' Dispatches.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO — Yakichiro Summa, spokesman for the Japanese foreign office, announced today that James R. Young, far eastern manager of International News Service, has been charged with violating articles 99, 3 and 2 of the army criminal code in news dispatches sent after a 9,000-mile tour of China.

Summa's announcement said:

"James R. Young, correspondent of International News Service, traveled to China from Nagasaki on Oct. 16.

"After visiting Shanghai and other cities, he returned to Tokyo on Jan. 6. He is charged with violating the provisions of articles 99, 3 and 2 of the army criminal code for the following offenses:

GAS STRIKE IN TOLEDO SLOWS UP INDUSTRIES

Layoffs Start Because of Lack of Fuel; Thousands Facing Forced Idleness.

ASKS U. S. INTERVENTION

City Manager Seeks Mediator to Settle Controversy Over Pay Hike Demands.

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO — Toledo industries today began to feel the gas strike keenly as lack of gas and promised co-operation in conservation of what gas is available resulted in layoffs in some plants, curtainment in others, and slowup of production in many manufacturing centers.

George N. Schoonmaker, city manager, today invited the U. S. department of labor to send a conciliator here at once as the city's gas strike cut the normal supply and threatened to throw thousands of men out of work.

The Doehler Die Casting company reported its production had been cut in half, resulting in layoffs of approximately 400 men. The Schultz Die Casting company laid off 50 men, and said that 100 more probably would be affected during the day.

The National Supply company closed down one large furnace and the Chevrolet-Toledo company announced that while there were no layoffs, production has been cut sharply.

Bakeries said gas was so low that they were shutting down some ovens. All homes had sufficient gas for fuel and cooking.

Schoonmaker said he was acting merely in the interest of consumers and to leave "no stone unturned" in efforts to keep gas flowing.

Earlier Safety Director Edward DeAngelo demanded of the company and union that:

The west central plant be reopened immediately; normal service be provided to industries, hospitals, homes and all consumers of artificial and natural gas; negotiations be resumed immediately with Edmund Ruffin, director of

Elaine and Blond Fight For Barrymore Spankings

'Great Lover,' Estranged Wife Reconciled; She Wants Job Back.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—John Barrymore's Broadway revival ran headlong today into the conflicting demands of a reconciled wife, a jilted protege and a forlorn daughter.

A showdown was due at any moment between the wife, Elaine Barrie, 25, and the protege, blond, 22-year-old Doris Dudley, over who is going to have the role of one of the Great Lover's daughters in his play "My Dear Children." Miss Barrie had the role while the show was on tour, until she deserted both it and Barrymore because he spanked her too hard in the acting at St. Louis. Now that she and Barrymore have been reconciled, at least for the past two nights, she wants to be spanked nightly again, and Miss Dudley is ready to fight for the privilege of being the Great Lover's subject.

The daughter, 17-year-old Diana Barrymore, by Barrymore's second marriage, was not interested in the play but she still hoped her father would leave "that woman," end his wandering and go "home" to her apartment.

The Barrymore-Barrie reconciliation, which began in a night club yesterday morning when she moved in on his table over the protests of both Miss Barrymore and Miss Dudley who were helping him celebrate his Broadway opening, already had raised a complicated legal problem. His and her lawyers went into a huddle over what effect their spending a night together would have on their divorce case pending in California.

Barrymore made no secret over where he and Miss Barrie had spent the night after leaving the club, and where they spent last night.

John Barrymore's appearance on Broadway after an absence of 15 years today had led to a reconciliation with his young wife, Elaine Barrie. When asked by photographers to pose kissing his wife, Barrymore did (above) and said, "It's a pleasure."

"Why," he said, stepping from her hotel apartment yesterday evening, "I spent the night here. And what of it? I have it on good authority that it's still legal in New York for a man to spend the night with his lawfully wedded wife. Or am I misinformed?"

Miss Barrie was elated. "We've had our quarrels and probably will have more," she said, "but right now we are definitely friends."

Miss Barrymore heard about this in silence, but not so Miss Dudley, who already had begun to fear for her job.

AIR ATTACKS FOLLOW NEW ARCTIC DRIVE

Towns and Villages Bombed in Latest Assault by Reds; Finns Fire at Planes.

MAKE VICTORY CLAIMS

Finland Says Heaviest Drive on Nation's 'Maginot Line' Meets With Failure.

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI — Russian bombing attacks on cities in southern Finland were resumed today with Helsinki anti-aircraft batteries firing on raiding Red planes.

The first air raid alarm was sounded at noon and lasted for half an hour. No planes were seen at this period, but it was reported they were bombing towns and villages between Helsinki and Karis, to the west.

Today's air raids came soon after the Finnish high command announced that the heaviest attack yet made on the Mannerheim line was repulsed yesterday with heavy losses to the Russians.

Fierce fighting raged in Finland's "Maginot line" until darkness, it was reported. The brunt of the Soviet onslaught was said to have fallen on positions near Summa, in the middle of the Karelian isthmus.

At the same time a new general Russian offensive was launched from the Arctic region of Petsamo along the eastern battle front to Lake Ladoga. Heavy fighting was reported at Salla and Kuhmo as well as at Petsamo and north of Lake Ladoga.

Battle Near Lake.

In the last-named region the Red army unleashed heavy attacks against Finnish defenses bordering the lake as well as against several islands within the lake itself, including the Matsi fortress where a valiant band of Finns has been holding out against numerically superior forces for weeks.

Meanwhile, at ten minutes after midnight, an air raid alarm was sounded in Helsinki. The all clear signal was given 18 minutes later. No planes were seen.

Finnish authorities claimed that the main assault against the Mannerheim line near Sum-

Winter Plans 'Blitzkrieg' Br'er Groundhog Warns

Emerges From Snooze, Casts Shadow Like War Cloud, Sees 'Blackout' of Spring for Next 6 Weeks.

Winter will stage a "blitzkrieg" that will "blackout" all signs of spring for the next six weeks.

That was the warning given by Br'er Joe Groundhog as he hopped out of his winter quarters this morning, casting a shadow as black as a European war cloud—an infallible prediction that there will be at least six more weeks of winter weather. Coal dealers grinned while residents looked glum, and a few remembered that, after all, we didn't have any real winter until after Christmas.

At the Weather Works, Punxsutawney, Pa., where for 50 years the citizens, officials and newspaper men have gone into the country to confer with Joe Groundhog on the weather for February and March, the usual delegation made its pilgrimage today and learned the "cold truth."

The furry seer told them they'd better keep on their ear muffs and red flannels. "The first phase of winter is ended," he prognosticated, "and the second, also severe, is about to begin."

Sleet, Ice Hit Traffic.

Last night the temperature dropped to six above in Mansfield and vicinity and a sleet storm turned to snow, making the highways impassable in some places and driving hazardous.

County Engineer Howard Sword said that four county roads had been blocked by drifting snow and that highway workers and equipment had been out all night clearing the roads.

Shortly after 8:30 last night the state highway patrol office in

HOOVER BACKS BENEFIT SHOW

Expresses Appreciation for Monday's Wrestling Card to Aid Finnish Fund.

A formal endorsement of the Finnish Relief Fund wrestling show to be staged at the Armory Monday night was received by The News-Journal today from former President Herbert Hoover.

Hoover sent a telegram of appreciation to The News-Journal for the four-match all-star card, which is expected to pack the armory to capacity Monday.

Hoover's message read: "Please accept my appreciation for your generous cooperation with the Finnish Relief Fund in sponsoring a wrestling show. I hope your promotion will receive the support it deserves and will prove to be highly successful."

The former president is chairman of the national drive for money to aid Finland civilians. A percentage of the receipts will go to the fund and the gate promises to set a new all-time high for wrestling in this city.

A special reduced ticket for the show is now on sale at the business office of The News-Journal from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m. A $1 ringside seat may be obtained at The News-Journal office for 75 cents if a reduced-price coupon appearing on the sports page is presented. This offer is good until Saturday noon.

Admission prices at the armory on the night of the show will be $1 and 50 cents.

FOILED AGAIN

Prisoner Leaps From Building to Building in Escape Try.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—For a second time in recent weeks, a police bullet last night halted an attempted escape by Ernest Dozier, 19-year-old workhouse prisoner of Hamilton, O.

Although no report of the incident appeared in police records, Workhouse Superintendent Anthony Sauer said that E. L. Singer, a guard, felled the youth after he had fled solitary confinement, leaped six feet from one building to another and made his way 40 feet to the ground. The bullet inflicted a flesh wound in the right leg.

Sauer said Dozier had been placed "in solitary" yesterday, a short time after he was detected in another effort to flee.

He recently had been under treatment for a wound in the left leg suffered when he attempted to escape from Hamilton police.

Westinghouse Cuts Prices On Refrigerators

Reductions on the entire 1940 line of electric refrigerators, ranging up to $35, were announced today by Frank R. Kohnstamm, merchandising manager of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant.

Featured in the new price schedule, which is effective immediately, Kohnstamm said, is a family-size six-cubic-foot model at $112.75 in the Mansfield district, with a slightly higher price in other areas.

Proportionately low prices have been established on other refrigerators.

"There is a significant point about our announcement of lower prices. That is that there has been no sacrifice in quality of material or workmanship," Kohnstamm said. "These models include all the mechanical features which have given Westinghouse refrigerators a reputation for high quality and economical performance."

The price reduction follows a similar announcement made last week by the Frigidaire division of the General Motors corporation at Dayton.

RECEIVER NAMED

Ashland Rubber Firm Sued for $106,000 Mortgage.

ASHLAND — Atty. George P. Gongwer today was appointed as receiver for the Eagle Rubber company as result of a suit filed in common pleas court here by the Union Commercial building, Cleveland, against the rubber company seeking payment of $106,000 on a mortgage issued in 1937.

The suit was filed by Raymond A. Gordon and Clyde M. White, trustees for the Cleveland firm, and Carl K. Kick, Ashland county treasurer.

The action charges that the company has been in default on payments and taxes levied against real and personal property of the company, and that payments were due Jan. 1, 1939.

The plaintiffs claim that a first mortgage on all personal and real estate property, life insurance policies, all rights to the plant and buildings, was issued Aug. 31, 1937, in an effort to get additional working capital, business extensions and funding of all indebtedness.

GIRL, 7, KILLED

Struck by Car in Front of Home Near Millersburg.

MILLERSBURG — Dorothy Jean Lee, seven-year-old daughter of Doyle Lee of Welcome, northeast of here, died in the Millersburg hospital last night shortly after she was struck by an automobile while crossing the highway in front of her father's home.

Authorities said the girl ran in front of a machine driven by Albert Fites, jr., of near Killbuck, while playing with her sister, Mary, whom she was visiting. Young Fites took the child to the hospital.

The girl lived with her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Coleman at Paint Valley. She was spending the evening with her father and sister.

Pretty, Too

Kay Stammers always has been considered just about the prettiest English contender in the tennis world. But here's a challenger if our photographer hasn't done us wrong. She is Nina Brown, dark-eyed London member of the Wightman Cup team, who now is competing in Florida tourneys. Nina was snapped at St. Pete.

Tyger Team Hopes to Make Amends Against West Five

ANXIOUS to make amends for their defeat at Ashland earlier in this week, the Mansfield high court cavorters will tangle with the Akron West Cowboys in the Tyger lair tonight.

As a preliminary feature, the junior Tygers will engage the Lucas Cubs, defending county tournament champions, at 7:15 p. m.

* * *

Just what kind of a lineup Coach Vern Hoffman will send against the visitors is problematical, but he indicated after the Ashland setback that a few changes might be made.

* * *

Hoffman was displeased with the showing his Tygers made in Ashland, and he figures if he can strengthen the club at this stage of the season with lineup shifts, it will be to the team's benefit for the district tournament games.

Almost certain to start tonight are Jack Shiplet, Russ Beer and Gene Miller. Harry Phillips, who showed much promise in his first starting role in the Ashland game, is also likely to be in the opening lineup. The fifth position remains doubtful, Hoffman said.

* * *

One of the better teams in Akron this season, the Cowboys will be primed to avenge some of the recent defeats administered by the Tygers.

* * *

West boasts of a more experienced club, with Ziruolo and Williams the Cowboys' chief scoring threats. Hoffman believes it will be necessary to stop these two boys to stand a chance to win.

Champion to Appear on Finnish Fund Card Once Was Lumberjack

BILLY WEIDNER of San Francisco, holder of the world's junior light-heavyweight championship, who will meet Walter Stratton in one of the top matches on Monday night's Finnish Relief Fund wrestling program at the armory, has been around.

Billy has done just about everything during his career from working on a copra plantation in the south sea islands, to placer mining in Alaska.

* * *

He's been everything from a machinist in a New England mill to a star amateur decathlon and Pentathlon performer for the New England Association of German Turners.

* * *

One of Weidner's many professions which he liked best and which brought him many pleasant associations was lumberjacking.

He recently renewed an old acquaintance made in his lumberjacking days.

Billy had occasion to more or less "scout" a match in which "Midget" Charley Fischer, former lightheavyweight champion of the world was taking part.

Weidner up to that time, to his knowledge had never seen Fischer, although like most other people he had heard a lot about the mighty Wisconsin midget.

However when Fischer walked into the ring and was introduced, Weidner nearly jumped out of his seat.

"Why I know that guy" he said. "I knew him 12 years ago in a logging camp."

And it turned out that he had. Meeting Fischer after the match it developed that both men had worked for the Sugar Pine Logging Co. of Fresno, Calif., 12 years ago.

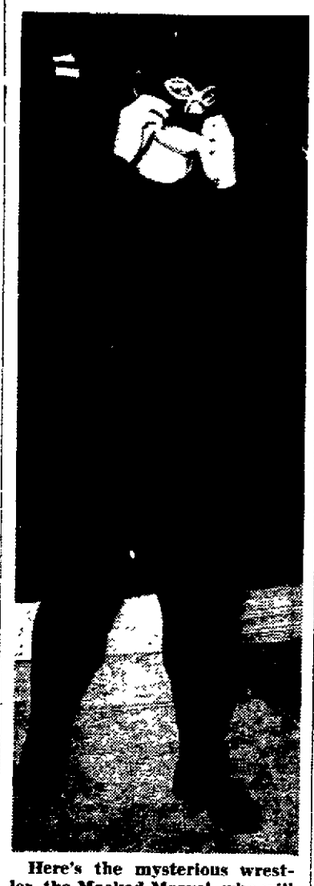
Fischer and Weidner were both crack amateur wrestlers at that time but neither had had any occasion to show it in the logging camp.

The Weidner-Stratton bout will co-headline the show with a match between Stacy Hall, world's light-heavyweight champion, and the Masked Marvell

Reserved seats for the show are on sale at The News-Journal business office between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. A coupon appearing on this page may be exchanged at the News-Journal for ringside seats for 75 cents. This offer is good until Saturday noon.

The ringside seats on the night of the show will be $1, with general admission tickets 50 cents.

Who Is He?



Here's the mysterious wrestler, the Masked Marvel, who will meet Stacy Hall, world's light-heavyweight champion, in one of the headline bouts on the Finnish Relief Fund show in the Armory Monday night. The Masked Marvel is undefeated in 94 straight matches. He will unmask Monday only if beaten by Hall.

This coupon accompanied by 75 cents may be exchanged for a $1 reserved ringside seat for The News-Journal Finnish Fund wrestling show to be held at the Armory Monday, Feb. 5.

This coupon must be exchanged in the business office of The News-Journal before noon Saturday.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

WITH Fremont's status questionable, tonight's Ohio State league meeting will probably be the most important of the year.

It was announced that the meeting to be held in Lima was called for the purpose of discussing the possibility of enlarging the circuit, but it now looks like it was called to check on Fremont.

Fremont, which is reported to have dropped something like $2,600 last season, recently closed a six-week ticket campaign for 1940 and it yielded only $200.

League chiefs says Marion may take over the Fremont franchise, but nothing has occurred to indicate that this will be the case.

Outside of Fremont, the Ohio wheel clubs appear to be fairly well set for the 1940 campaign.

And, we might mention, this is the first time since 1912 that Mansfield is ready for a baseball campaign. In other years, this city was the last to get its house into

Glover Makes Title Stand In Cleveland

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Thirty-two crack boxers, including five from outside Cleveland, will battle tonight in the finals of the Plain Dealer's annual golden gloves tournament.

Lorain has two representatives, Mansfield one and Akron one in the title bouts in the open division. Victors will advance to the Chicago Tribune's tournament of champions and the national A. A. U. contests in Boston.

Max Schindler, of Lorain, the only defending champion in the tournament, fights Tony Lanese for the 126-pound crown; George George, also of Lorain, meets light-heavyweight Bobby Berry; 135-pound Beauford Glover, of Mansfield, tangles with Jerry Flemia, and Buddy Smallwood, of Akron, encounters Erine Mossman, in the 112-pound class.

Vincent Raines, of Akron, will fight James Bloom for the title in the 135-pound novice division.

All bouts are set for three rounds.

Mid-Court Shot Wins for Oils

Lockhart's Basket Enables Blue Goose Team to Remain In Tie With Westinghouse.

By CHARLES MARTIN

BASKETEERS of the Westinghouse Electric company and Blue Goose Sohioans still share first place in the second round title chase of the City Class A basketball league.

The two combines, which came through with flying colors on the Senior high hardwood last night, tangle next week for the crown.

It was an interesting program the City loop quintets presented in their weekly attraction at Mansfield high.

Willard Lockhart sank a shot from mid-court in the last 30 seconds to give the Sohioans a thrilling 38 to 37 decision over the Yuncker Sports in the second game, while the Westies, led by Bob Shade, turned back Shelley's Chocolates, 26 to 20, in the opener.

* * *

Even after Lockhart gave the Blue Goose a one-point lead the fireworks were not over. His brother, Kenny, fouled Johnny Rees just as the game ended and Rees had a chance of knotting the score and sending the contest into an overtime period.

* * *

His free throw, however, hit the rim of the net and rolled off after hesitating momentarily.

That Sports-Blue Goose affair was a hair-raiser from the opening gun. The Yuncker outfit picked up a 10 to 7 lead in the first frame and with a minute to go in the half still held an 18 to 15 lead. But a free throw by Kenny Lockhart and a pair of baskets by Tom Farrell gave the Sohioans a 20-18 advantage at the intermission.

The clubs went into the fourth frame with the Sports holding a 28-27 lead, but with three minutes to go, Blue Goose tied it up on Farrell's rebound shot. Al Stuckler dumped in two foul shots in the final minute and the Sports' one-point margin looked good until Willard added his fielder.

Farrell, whose rebound work under both baskets was a highlight of the contest, and Rees shared individual honors with 12 tallies apiece. Willard Lockhart added 10 markers to the Blue Goose total. The Sohioans' ability to break up the Sports' passing attack was a major factor in enabling them to emerge with the triumph.

After spotting the Chocolates to a 4-1 advantage in the initial period, Coach Hank Richards' Electrics began clicking and soon forged into the lead. Shelley's five put up a great battle for three periods, but couldn't halt Shade's spectacular shooting.

* * *

Midway in the third frame George Nana tallied under the basket to cut the Westies' advantage to a 15-14 count, but from there on in Shade took command.

* * *

The Westies went ahead, 26-20, and stalled the last three minutes.

Westinghouse led, 6-4, in the first period, 13 to 8 at the half and 19 to 14 at the end of the third frame. Shade was high-point man with 12 markers. Freddie Lewis, who drove in for a couple of nice under-the-basket shots, led the losers with eight points.

Shelley's players' inability to make foul shots was important. They missed 15 straight free throws.

Forfeit Gives Farm Cage Quintet Title

Raemelton Team Walks Into Throne Room as Augustines Fail to Appear for Game.

A FORFEIT gave Raemelton Farm the first half championship in the Friendly House Senior Class A league last night at the settlement.

Sporting a two-game lead with a like number of games to play, the Farm quintet was to clash with Augustine's Canfields, who shared the runner-up post with the Rex Billiards, but they failed to have their team on the floor at game time.

The Cuemen took undisputed possession of second place by stopping the Daley Cage team, 32 to 22, while Isaly Dairys beat the Moose Lodge club, 39 to 15, in the other contests. It was the Cafe combine's eighth defeat in nine starts.

* * *

A 14-point scoring spree in the opening chapter gave the Billiards a lead that was never threatened. Daley's representatives held the winners scoreless in the third period, but were unable to overcome the commanding advantage. Both clubs tallied 12 markers in the final stanza.

* * *

The Billiards led, 14 to 5, in the opening quarter, 22 to 9, at halftime, and, 22 to 10, at the end of the third period.

Mike Wentz slipped in four fielders and a pair of free throws for 10 points to set the individual pace. Brubach topped the losers with eight tallies.

Paced by Shaffer, who collected 15 points, the Dairys, after taking a 7-3 lead in the first frame, marked up 14 points in the second quarter while whitewashing the Moose to pile up a comfortable advantage.

The Isaly five was ahead, 21-3, at the rest period, and, 24 to 12, as the clubs went into the final chapter.

Bob Jones, 13-year-old Bushnell center, showed the boys how to score baskets during the Grade School league games on the Mansfield high court yesterday.

* * *

The sharpshooter practically burned up the net as he slipped in 32 baskets—yes, that's correct—to pace his teammates to a one-sided, 86 to 9, victory over Woodland. His 64 points is the highest total ever collected in the elementary circuit, and he did it in 20 minutes.

Carpenter stepped into the picture for a while yesterday by turning back Bowman, 11 to 10, to throw the championship race into a two-team affair. Bushnell and Carpenter share the top berth with 13 wins and two defeats.

The pace setters have three games to play, and will clash in the season's final.

Western edged Brinkerhoff, 12 11. West Fifth stopped Prospect, 23 to 3, and Newman beat Hedges, 12 to 8, in the other games.

ADD TO ROSTER

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Cincinnati Reds added another player and another farm club to the roster today. The player was Bill Hershberger, hard-hitting reserve catcher, whose signed contract became No. 33 to reach the Red business office. The farm club was Lenoir, N. C., of the Tarheel league.

Apostoli Favored In 15-Round Bout

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—By popular request, those hard-hitting ex-champions—Fred Apostoli of San Francisco and Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y.—will give a repeat performance of their mauling melodrama "hit the deck" tonight at Madison Square Garden.

At its initial showing on Jan. 5, this offering evoked a great hurly-burly of mingled bravos, boos and flying bottles, after Frisco Fred hit the deck thrice, southpaw Bettina once and an unforunate bottle-struck ringsider once.

His first performance was of 12 acts, but tonight's show has been expanded to 15. This longer distance is a major reason why Apostoli is the 6-5 favorite to repeat for the decision. Apostoli, former middleweight king, is a slow starter, while Melio, former light heavy champ, starts fast but usually fades in the later going.

Calls Landis 'Bush Leaguer'

MacPhail Says Farm Situation 'Hopeless Confusion.'

BOSTON — (AP) — The present farm situation in baseball, in the opinion of President Larry MacPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is "one of seemingly hopeless confusion."

"And if something isn't done about it in a hurry," he said in a blast at Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the game's high commissioner, during a speech at the Boston Baseball Writers' dinner last night, "the minors may be injured and years required to repair the damage."

* * *

Labelling Landis "a bush leaguer" in comparison to John Brown, the great abolitionist, MacPhail declared he had received telegrams from "the presidents of 15 minor leagues that indicate that there is grave doubt whether they can operate unless the commissioner's recent bulletin is modified."

* * *

Brown, he said, had to raid Harper's Ferry to free a few slaves, while Landis released 90-odd baseball serfs from bondage with a stroke of the pen, following this act with a 7-point manifesto wiping out nine farm systems and about 100 working agreements

"In a nutshell, it (the commissioner's plan) would abolish all farm systems working agreements and options, set up a universal draft and prevent all clubs from acquiring players beyond their immediate needs, thereby making the supply as easily available to the Browns as to the Yankees," the colorful Dodger chieftain asserted

"In the matter of Judge Landis vs. the farm system, he sits as prosecutor, judge and jury, and there is no appeal Either he is dealing out justice or he is engaging in a 'witch hunt' in which the innocent will burn along with the guilty," he added.

It looks as if Saturday's session of the Ohio State athletic board in Columbus might bring about some fireworks, according to the Associated Press' Fritz Howell. With one faction of the big-city schools opposing the board's plan to ban all-star and "bowl" football games, another group dead set against the proposed curtailment of football and still a third fighting the new rule which ousts basketball talent at mid-year under the eight-semester rule, there may be some headaches in store for the board members. "The group faces a tough chore in attempting to please 1,150 different schools, practically all with different athletic problems and desires," Howell writes.

Start Using COLGRA SUPER-FILM "PLATED LUBRICATION"

NOW! Mr. Car or Truck Owner — don't go through this winter with those cold-weather motor troubles that make driving a nightmare! Protect your engine with Colgra, an amazing super-lubricant additive that increases film strength of any oil THREE TO FIVE TIMES—forms a highly polished, mirror-like surface on moving parts, preventing that metal-to-metal contact which causes extra friction and wear as the temperature drops.

When you use Colgra, even if the oil is diluted with gasoline by choking, the film strength protection remains the same, although when oil is treated with Colgra, starting is much easier and requires less choking. Colgra prevents sticky valves, dry pistons and rings, sluggishness and loss of power. Colgra saves repair and gasoline bills, extra oil changes and yet is absolutely harmless—contains no abrasles or anything injurious to motors.

EQUALLY EFFICIENT AT ALL SEASONS OF THE YEAR!

Your car needs Colgra 12 months a year. Colgra is not only a motor protective against the rigors of winter driving but is also an ideal aid to cool, sweet-running motors during the blasting hot days of summer.

Colgra, by increasing film strength of oil, actually keeps the engine running many degrees cooler and gives necessary protection to the moving parts that are subjected to a terrific strain when temperatures rise high.

Read What COLGRA Users Say..

Fleet Owner Praises Colgra:

"After viewing a demonstration of your product, we decided to give the product a trial in our entire package delivery fleet consisting of 75 units. We now know that Colgra Super-film' reduces excessive oil consumption and with its increased film strength we make less changes of oil, our equipment runs more smoothly We therefore do not hesitate in unconditionally recommending 'Colgra Super-Film' to anyone." Consolidated Delivery Service, Inc., Fred R. Hatch, Pres., Minneapolis

Trucking Company Says Colgra Acts Like Magic:

"We operate over 150 trucks and use Colgra Super-film in all our equipment. Colgra has acted like magic and astounded us by its results." Watson Bros Transfer Co., Missouri.

Rent-A-Car Co., Says Colgra Cuts Down Repairs

"After adding two ounces of Colgra for every quart of Motor Oil filled into our cars and trucks, we found almost immediate results. Furthermore, we have increased our running miles almost double on the same motor oil we formerly used, and cut down much of the oil repairs on account of excess carbon or replacement of new rings, etc." Rent-A-Car Co., Minneapolis.

Says Colgra Makes Car Start Easy in Zero Weather

"Colgra Super-film makes cars start easily in zero weather and increases mileage on gas and oil. That's real lubrication" Pete Turgeon, Eagle Grove, Ia

Says Colgra-Treated Car Only One to Start in Cold Weather

"My Pontiac using Colgra was the only one to start in this cold weather after a dinner party I had to push seven others to start them" J. R. Martin, Milwaukee, Wis.

Says Colgra Saves Gasoline and Oil on Ford Car

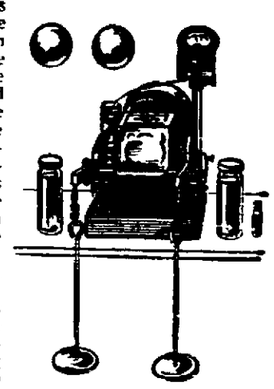
"Increased mileage on my Ford averaged 20% on gasoline and over 50% savings in oil." Ellison R. Copeland, N Y.

2,000 CAR OWNERS CAN MAKE THIS TEST for Only 35c

The manufacturers of Colgra want motorists in and around Mansfield to spread the news about Colgra and what it does. To do this quickly, 2000 regular 80c cans will be distributed, one to a person, for only 35c each, when coupon below is presented to the recognized Colgra dealers listed below. This offer expires midnight, next Thursday, February 8. Unless Colgra thoroughly convinces you it is the greatest motor protector you have ever used, your dealer will give you

YOUR MONEY BACK IF NOT SATISFIED!

The Famous Week's Bearing Test Proves Colgra's Qualities!



Illustrated is the famous Week's testing machine which tells the film strength of any lubricating oil. The test is simple. On each side of the machine are placed two standard Bearings—one ball and one cone. The cone bearing is revolved by a motor at a speed of 600 revolutions per minute, and is half submerged in oil. The same grade oil is placed in the cups on each side of the machine To one cup 6% of Colgra Superfilm is added. Then the machine is started Every 30 seconds weights are added to each side of the machine. Each weight represents, at the bearing points, a pressure of 800 pounds per square inch Actual certified tests show that the bearing run in untreated oil will burn out under pressure ranging from 1600 to 2400 pounds, while the bearing run in the same oil in the other cup to which Colgra Super-film is added will run up to 20,000 pounds pressure without damaging the bearing. Another amazing fact is that the bearing which is burned out after running in regular oil could be run in oil treated with Colgra and would run smoothly and quietly as if it were perfect.

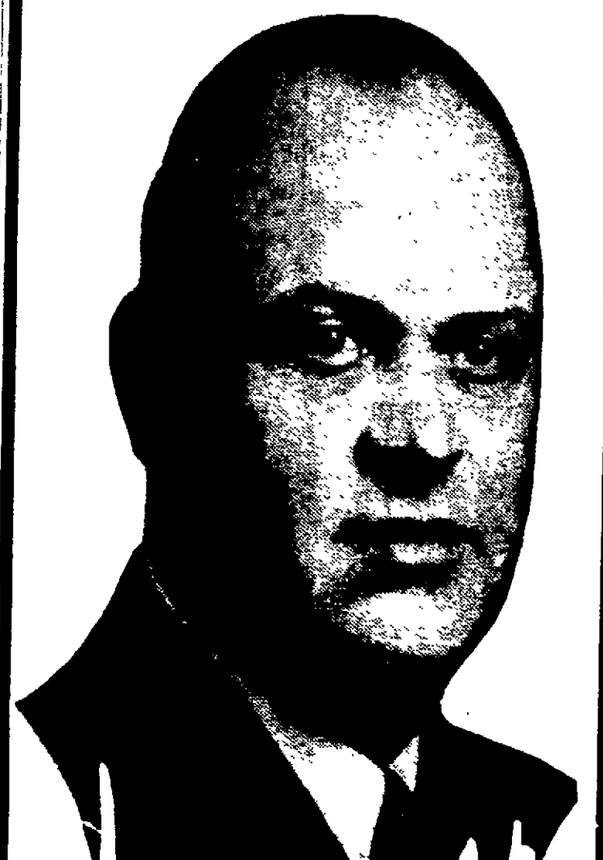
DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE For CONGRESS

Special Primary, Feb. 6, 1940



Dear Friend:

I am a candidate for Representative in Congress to succeed your old friend, and my uncle, the late William A. Ashbrook. You know his record of honesty, courage, understanding and appreciation of the problems of our people in the entire 17th District. As his close associate for more than 25 years I ask only his unexpired term—to carry on where he left off.

I will faithfully and cheerfully serve you and represent your best interests to the full extent of my ability. The same efficient organization in Washington, which has been so instrumental in loyally serving the District for many years, will be retained.

Qualified by association and experience—I will be most appreciative of your support next Tuesday.

State Department to Forbid Fishing In 'Spawning Zones'

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The state conservation department will hang "no fishing" signs this spring in certain areas where bass spawn.

Location of the zones and duration of the ban will be determined later by the conservation and natural resources commission which yesterday turned down a proposal to protect spawning by forbidding all spring fishing.

The daily bag limit on black bass and trout was raised from five to six, but the limit on yellow pike perch was cut from eight to six, not less than 13 inches long.

* * *

Recognizing many complaints regarding trot lines, the commission set the maximum number of hooks on a single line at 30, separated at least three feet. Trot lines were prohibited in lakes and immediately below dams.

* * *

Other commission decisions included: Daily creel limit on crappies cut from 25 to 20; five-inch limit on bluegills removed; employment of chemical engineer to confer with industrial and municipal officials on pollution abatement; $2,200 appropriated for research on upstream migration, dams and spawning on Muskingum river; land purchase completed for Kiser lake in Champaign county.

Motor driven ice boats permitted on state-owned lakes larger than 400 acres, distinguishing marking on game protectors' automobiles ordered, ban on motor boats planned in state-owned lakes under construction or to be built later. Other regulations will be considered March 13.

MID-TERM EXAMS HIT ILLINI, BADGER QUINTS

CHICAGO—(AP)—All the precincts haven't been heard from but the outcome of mid-term examinations may have a profound effect on the Big Ten basketball race. Deficient grades have removed three players each from the squads at Illinois and Wisconsin, including a regular on each team.

The Badgers lost Bob Schwartz of Madison, varsity forward who ranks seventh in individual scoring with 41 points, Bob Sims, second string guard and Bob Nelson, Reserve forward. Another player, Lester Sander, sophomore center, has left school. Illinois lost Bob Richmond, regular guard; Bob O'Neill, second spring center and Red Sherman, sophomore forward. All failed to make the scholastic grade.

WALKER-NESTELL BOUT TO DRAW 6,000 TONIGHT

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Ohio's capital city gets its biggest heavyweight boxing show in a decade tonight when Bob Nestell, Los Angeles importation, enters the ring a 6 to 5 favorite to halt the meteoric rise of Jack (Buddy) Walker, home-town hero.

The bout is slated to last 10 rounds but the past punching exploits of the two contenders brought odds of 3 to 1 that the match ends in a knockout. In any event some 6,000 fans will pay around $6,000 to be able to say "I was there" if the expected fistic dynamite explodes.

PATTY, BETTY TO MEET CORAL GABLES FINALS

CORAL GABLES, Fla.—(AP)—Having recovered somewhat from the terrible near-freezing temperatures of last week-end, the citizens of Miami and their winter visitors were out in warm sunshine today to follow what promised to be one of the best women's golf matches in recent years.

Meeting in the 36-hole final of the annual Miami Biltmore tournament were Betty Jameson of San Antonio, the national champion, and Patty Berg of Minneapolis, four-time previous winner of this event. The match carried exceptional interest.

STEELS, MOTORS AND AIRCRAFTS HIGH IN RALLY

Brisk Pickup in Public Spending Major Market Prop; Bonds Improve.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market enjoyed a creeping rally today with leaders getting up fractions to around a point.

Steels, motors and aircrafts were among the best. Volume continued small.

Bonds were selectively improved and most commodities displayed moderately rising tendencies. Foreign securities markets were mixed.

There was little change in the news picture, although business items here and there were more cheerful than otherwise.

The lengthy market stalemate, brokers said, inspired some speculative buying in the share list on the theory there was a good chance of a breakout on the upside in view of the decline which has wiped out virtually all of the September bulge.

A prop for market sentiment was found in week-end merchandising surveys reporting a brisk pickup in public spending as rising temperatures in most parts of the country enabled customers to get out of doors.

Retail distribution for the nation as a whole was placed at 5 to 9 per cent over the comparable 1939 week by Dun & Bradstreet.

DAVID LEWIS, 14, ELECTED 'MAYOR'

Troop 3 Candidate to Head City Government on Scout Civic Day.

SHELBY—A Nationalist party candidate, David Lewis, 14, of Troop 3 was elected "mayor" of Shelby for the Boy Scout Civic day, Feb. 8, at the election last night at First Methodist church. Some 50 scouts went to the polls to select their "official" for the National Boy Scout week observance here.

The Federalist and Nationalist parties, the scouts' political groups, split the ticket. Each party had six candidates elected.

Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lewis, 107 South Gamble street, is a sophomore at Shelby high school. He was opposed by Richard Class, 16, Federalist candidate.

Other winners on the Nationalist ticket were David's brother, Dudley Lewis of the same troop, who was unopposed for the office of director of law; James Herbert of Troop 1; unopposed for utilities director; Billy Forquer defeated Jimmie Petty for the police chief post, and Eugene Keller, councilman-at-large, and Kenneth Troxell Second ward council.

The successful Federalist candidates were Robert Sterling, director of finance and public records; Donald Cline, public service director; Marty Luchansky, fire chief; Buron Caporini, First ward councilman; Lawrence Boellhoff, Third ward councilman, and Lee Smith, jr., Fourth ward councilman.

OHIO PLUMBERS TO CONVERGE ON CITY NEXT WEEK

500 Visitors Expected for 49th Annual Convention Opening Monday.

Mansfield is expected to be host to more than 500 visitors next week when the Ohio State Association of Master Plumbers holds its 49th annual state convention here.

Business sessions will open at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Monday and will continue through Wednesday with the Mansfield Master Plumbers association as hosts, Charles Hoffman, general convention chairman, said today.

The ladies' auxiliary of the association and the Ohio Society of Plumbing Inspectors also will convene here at the same time.

The opening session Monday afternoon will be addressed by Mayor William J. Locke; C. L. Van Derau, president of the Chamber of Commerce; George W. Stephens, president of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company; Henry S. Blank of Dayton, president of the National Association of Master Plumbers, and Joseph E Keim, secretary and director of the national association.

Banquet Tuesday.

The convention will be highlighted Tuesday evening with a banquet at which Dr. Charles Copeland Smith of Chicago will speak on "Freedom—Our American Dynamic." He will appear here under the auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Judge Homer A. Ramey of Toledo's municipal court will also talk. John Pierce of Mansfield will be toastmaster.

Wednesday state health officials, including Dr. R. H. Markwith, state health director, and Fred L. Waring, chief engineer for the state health department, will address the convention.

Election of officers and the selection of the 1941 convention city will precede a ball climaxing the conference.

Members of the Mansfield Master Plumbers association who are arranging for the affair are Charles Hoffman, general chairman; Charles Arting, vice chairman; William Antrican, publicity committee; Herman Hoffman, banquet committee; Frank Frietchen, theater; Carl Shambaugh, hotel; Henry Dening and O. P. Wervey, finance; Charles Ricker, transportation; Wade Stanfield, reception; William Early, registration; Frank Leach, convention hall; Alex Grassick and William Overly, ball.

WINS CHARM PRIZE

LORAIN, O.—(U.P.)—A prize offered at a "charm school" lecture limited exclusively to women was won by a man. J. H. Brown, janitor of the building, had obtained a ticket and dropped it in the box. The women voted to give him his prize—a loaf of bread and a package of cheese.

Convention Speaker

Dr. Charles Copeland Smith of Chicago, who has been successively a minister, sociologist, economist, author, radio commentator and lecturer, will address the Ohio State Association of Master Plumbers Tuesday evening at their 49th annual state convention at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. An Englishman by birth, Dr. Smith has been a citizen of United States for more than 20 years. His subject here will be: "Freedom—Our American Dynamic."

RATIONING DOESN'T WORRY HIM; HE SUBSISTS ON DIET OF GRASS

(By International News Service)

LONDON — The institution of rationing in wartime Britain does not worry 67-year-old James R. B. Branson, of Battersea, London. In fact it doesn't bother him at all.

For Benson, for the past three years, has eaten nothing but grass from his lawn or the local bowling green—and raw vegetables.

"The diet has rejuvenated me wonderfully," said Benson, who in spite of his age looked and declared he felt very fit.

"I could bicycle 90 miles a day without any trouble. In winter I keep my grass in boxes and eat it dried. They are my haystacks. Grass is the finest form of natural food.

"At first I had to get accustomed to the unusual feel of it in my mouth. But now I get along splendidly.

"The only trouble about rationing is that I am fond of sugar and used to flavor my grass. But I have been experimenting with vegetables, and I find I can use chopped-up beetroot and apples and pears to flavor it instead."

Cooking, in the opinion of Branson, takes all the goodness out of vegetables.

"I never eat anything cooked," he said. "Occasionally in the evening I have a little cheese, but if I want to have a real meal I add a few rolled oats to my vegetables.

"Last night I had an excellent supper consisting of a cut up leek mixed with grass. You want the grass cut up fine. Then each little piece of grass is like a tiny test tube full of valuable salts."

Asked what sort of Christmas dinner he had, Branson said:

"Oh, my wife made a plum pudding. I had some of that—and then some grass."

Branson's wife does not eat grass. She has tried it, but it does not suit her palate.

ASSERTS BORAH EXPECTED WAR'S END BY SPRING

Writer Says Senator Believed Revision of Versailles Treaty Held Peace Key.

(Editor's Note—How Senator Borah went to his grave convinced that Europe's troubles for the past score of years were directly caused by the Versailles treaty is related in the 12th article in a series on the famed statesman by William K. Hutchinson of International News Service.)

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON — William Edgar Borah entered the Valhalla of Statesmen, expecting peace to be restored to Europe this spring through a general revision of the Versailles treaty.

This was in accord with a conviction, born with the writing of the treaty at the close of the first World war, that the pact would end in another great war unless modified. He constantly reiterated that belief, though in the first half of 1939 he frequently predicted there would be no second World war this winter. He erred but he dismissed the present war as a mere modus operandi to revision of the Versailles treaty.

Borah was the world's outstanding foe of the Versailles treaty. He helped to defeat American ratification of that document. He took every opportunity presented him to demand its revision. He began in 1920 and stopped only when death stilled his tongue.

In October, 1931, he created an international sensation by attacking the Versailles treaty, while Premier Laval of France, was in Washington conferring with President Hoover. He made the attack in an interview to French newspapermen, who accompanied Laval to this country.

Borah told them the Polish corridor should be returned to Germany and Hungary's former boundaries restored.

"You won't get disarmament in Europe," he told them, "until you correct these conditions."

Would Cancel Debts.

Borah was willing too for the United States to make some contribution—but not an entangling alliance—to give Europe permanent peace. He told the French reporters:

"I have in mind cancellation of reparations in their entirety and cancellation of international debts in their entirety, if the Versailles treaty is revised."

He created a sensation that completely overshadowed the Laval-Hoover talks. This tickled him for he told me at the time:

"I started something."

After Laval left for home, Borah was pleased immensely again when he believed President Hoover had joined his fight against entangling alliances. After visiting Hoover at the White House, Borah told me:

"The president is on our side. He said to me: "the last ten years have shown me we have no business tying up with Europe."

I asked him in February, 1938, whether Hitler was pushing the world toward war. He replied:

"No. He's pushing in one respect toward war because he wants his colonies back but in my judgment that will not lead to war and ultimately he will get his colonies back. England will go along with him in the end.

"The colonies do not belong to England except through the power and effect of war. There is no righteousness behind the title and Germany ultimately will secure them.

"That's not a new idea with me. I asserted it on the floor of the senate in 1920."

"Is that a sign of Britain's weakness?"

"If you eliminate the injustices of the Versailles treaty, there is nothing extraordinary in the present situation. It's a swingback, a reversion of the injustices of the Versailles treaty."

"What about the dictators?"

"The Versailles treaty made the dictators. These immense navies, that are being built, are the products of the Versailles treaty —to hold the territory that the gentlemen at Versailles undertook to distribute. Correction of the Versailles treaty will take place and I don't believes it will require a war to do it."

Before war broke again in Europe, but while the world was plunging through one crisis after another he told me:

"All these crises are the fruit of the democracies themselves. They wrote the Versailles treaty. I can see nothing in this situation that the democracies did not lay the foundation for in that treaty.

"Democracies? Bah. Why they're as much dictatorships as Hitler himself."

And only a few weeks before his death, when I gently teased him that he had been wrong in predicting "no war," he retorted:

"War? This is no real war. I expect peace in the spring. This is only the window-dressing for a general revision of the Versailles treaty. It has to come."

(Tomorrow—Borah on Britain.)

ADMIT THEFTS

Two Youths Land in Juvenile Court in 'Gas' Stealing.

When two 16-year-old Springfield township youths pleaded guilty to a theft charge in juvenile court yesterday afternoon, one of them was paroled to the county attendance officer and the other was taken to the county detention home to permit further investigation of the case.

Arrested yesterday by Sheriff E. P. Long, the boys admitted taking five gallons of gasoline, two gallons of oil, and a gallon of anti-freeze from a Farm Bureau truck operated by Robert Hawk.

Judge C. J. Anderson ordered one of the youths to attend school and report regularly on his behavior to H. J. Sir Louis, county attendance officer.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1940

Greenberg or no greenberg, it's a safe guess that the coal supply should be figured to last through April.

Prime of senator's weapon—not to be used—he can't trouble enough to keep from looking as if better than he really is.

Now by bringing a beautiful new world, building peace, it certainly wonder that so many of the customers were darned sick of peace and war.

Month Without Traffic Death

WITH longer nights and some icy or snowy roads to make driving hazardous, Richland county went through the month of January without a single traffic fatality.

Credit for this accomplishment has been attributed largely to the increased danger created by ice and lack of streets and highways.

So it appears that either a drive-cautious spirit who drivers as a result of safe driving are not actually part of operating habits and many other people—they merely can't be made to realize that there is any danger associated with driving on wide, straight dry highways.

Frequency of minor traffic accidents during the past month, however, underscores the need of even greater carefulness during the winter season as damage to cars is an annoying and expensive experience, even when no injuries or fatalities result.

The fact that one month of 1940 has passed without any traffic deaths in this county is evidence that speed and carelessness are largely responsible for the heavy annual traffic toll in this and other communities, and that more general cultivation of safer driving habits is essential to any substantial reduction in accidents.

Progress In Social Hygiene

YESTERDAY'S national observance of Social Hygiene day gives an idea of the long forward step that has been taken within the past decade in public discussion of venereal diseases and in the efforts to reduce, and eventually eradicate syphilis through proper treatment in early stages and by education of potential victims.

According to leaders in the fight, the best safeguard against this frightful disease is through education and the first objective has been to break down the prudery which has, until recently, banned frank mention of the malady.

Last year the federal government provided $3,000,000 to carry on the work of enlightenment and for this year the amount has been increased to $5,000,000. At a result, young people and their parents are being given information more accurately and more widely than ever before and a number of states have legislated to require physical examinations before marriage licenses are issued.

The false modesty, and feeling of shame, which formerly hindered many persons from seeking immediate medical help, is gradually being overcome.

Good results are appearing in various cities in proportion to the extent to which sensible education in social hygiene is given public approval, with Mansfield among the communities still in need of more widespread acceptance among adults that this is a proper subject for education of young people.

Claim 'Seasonal' Employment

EXTENT to which some people will take advantage of a situation which makes it possible for them to get "something for nothing" is seen in continued revelations of at least a few well-paid professional ball players asking for, and sometimes receiving, unemployment benefits of $15 a week, because of "seasonal employment," despite the fact that some are getting as high as $9,000 a year for playing baseball.

It appears that technically, in some states at least, seasonal employes are not barred from unemployment benefits, regardless of their annual income.

The purpose of unemployment insurance, as most people realize, is to meet the needs of persons who are temporarily out of a job and who might honestly be in distress if such payments were not made.

That there are some persons who are not above taking unemployment benefits for which they have no actual need reveals a shameless greed that tends to disgust the public and can scarcely fail to react to the detriment of the grabber.

Middle Class America

A RECENT survey discloses that most Americans, whether rich, poor or in between, consider themselves "middle class citizens." Also that most Americans—the professional, the poor, executives, white-collar workers, factory owners and the unemployed—believe that the interests of employers and employes are, by their very nature, basically the same.

This looks like good stuff to counteract communism or fascism and make it safe for democracy. Understanding the American idea of freedom and opportunity to prosper. In spite of the depression, bigger dividends and greater security than any other people in history, the nation has not split itself into an aristocracy and a proletariat.

In small and big towns, cities, factories, farming and mining communities, the typical American is not the victim of a free economy. He is not the product of a plutocracy. He is the proprietor, manager, foreman, clerk, salesman, professional man, skilled worker, farmer, laborer, who has a stake in the country and a pride in the part he plays in it. He is not a member of any class. He is an American. That is the attitude or belief that makes democracy work.

Cool Sunlight Promised

One of the curses of modern heating and ventilating has been its dryness, especially like a Venetian wind, which used to be brought into a house and kept that way. Sometimes the wind would be fine for offices, factories and stores.

In homes it was another matter. Furniture, on bright days to protect it, and drapes soon began fading. If the fading effect of the direct sunlight could be cut out, along with its heat or power, housewives would be delighted to have the sunshine for some hours.

"We don't mind cold weather we're having," remarked someone to a passing a coal dealer rode past.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Well, as you know, I'm not from Hunter or Bronxville or Astoria or Great Neck but I'm pretty sure that New York is New York. Which is more and more confusing as time goes on. I'm a fan boy and so is Mayor Bowie and a couple of times a week I meet with a hard-boiled poet and Harry Hansen. It's a mixture of people and a rarely mixed liquor. Manhattan is a fair barometer of persecutions and wars to come. How much?

New York is a rock pile and an ocean port. It's a counter clerk and a financier and a truck driver. There are a few wooden shacks . . . There are a few mud cow sheds . . . The pigs and the cream and the well-to-dos from Amsterdam to Park Avenue. The rich from the wop parks drop in to eat . . .

After a while the English come and go. Talking and the ruling class become a middle of nowhere . . . and a few York get out a crazy new York is named in honor of an older, more older York.

The mass Burgoyne and Cornwallis and a bloody footprint in the snow. It's Stony Point. It's the Dove tavern, but you'd better hurry they're hanging Major Andre in the morning. It's Washington. It's a flag, and a fife and a drum. . . . There is eventually a dirty little cowpath of a street which, for some reason they call Broadway.

* * *

THIS is Washington Irving's town and Walt Whitman's and Poe's. There are Tories and Whigs and Abolitionists who pray for John Brown's soul. If you walk South Street in the black of the moon you can see a Slaver. . . . You can see Irish adventurers and actors and black-robed priests. You can even read an editorial in the newspapers which calls Lincoln a fool, although the townspeople themselves don't think Lincoln's a fool. The younger men take him at his word, and "sign up." They get brand new rifles that make their shoulders sore, and new boots that leave blisters on their feet and they march off gaily toward a nightmare called Bull Run.

They run fast for awhile but they catch their breath and come back again, and after a while, they don't run any more . . . They find a fellow who knows what to do, and he does it. And if you go up on Riverside Drive you can find his tomb, although I have always thought that Ulysses S. Grant should be buried in Ohio, not New York.

* * *

YES, this is Grant's town, and Trotsky's, and Babe Ruth's. It is Sidney Lanier, and Mae West and Al Smith. East side, west side, take me out to the ball game. There is Tammany, and rum, and politics. There is Prohibition and a brand new jargon hits the underworld . . . A "rodney" is a gun. . . . People get "rubbed out" . . . There are the dry, the smoky years . . . and a riddled body lies by the roadside.

If you listen closely you can hear Tex Guinan yelling "Come on, Sucker, let's give this little girl a hand" . . . Tex is a cloud now. Don't let that strange sudden rumble frighten you; that's a subway. Wonder what old pegleg Peter Stuyvesant would think of a subway . . . Wonder what the subway would think of old Peter Stuyvesant?

Flapjacks in Child's and Crepe Suzettes at the Ritz . . . George M. Cohan ("I'm just a Yankee Doodle Dandy"), and a midget who sits in J. P. Morgan's lap . . . There is an era in New York's memory known as the Ziegfeld era. But it is gone, and so is he, and neither will ever come back again. What is New York? It is Bill Robinson with a tap, tap, tap and a fried chicken wing . . . It is Cab Calloway and a hi-de-ho-ho . . . It is Minsky, and strip-tease, and Eugene O'Neill, and seven million others who somehow make this town what it is.

Beyond this opponent knoweth not.

You Never Do Things Suddenly.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU SAY, "I am so impulsive! I'm always doing things on the spur of the moment and getting into the most awful messes! It's terrible to be impulsive as I am!"

You sigh—thinking of those messes. Yet there is a certain complacency behind your remorse. Secretly you're quite a little proud of your "impulsiveness." You believe it sets you apart from the common cattle who go doggedly on their way.

Moreover, this theory furnishes you with a grand alibi for an assorted lot of human cussedness. If you're so highly organized that you go off like a firecracker, then it really isn't your fault, but God's. Or maybe Mama's or Papa's. So, after all, people shouldn't blame you for the fool things you've done. They should even envy you—for see how much more "complicated" you are than they!

Is that the way you feel about yourself? Then prepare to deflate, Dearie, for here comes some unwelcome truth. The simple fact is—you've been kidding yourself. You've never done anything "on the spur of the moment." None of us have. It's not possible to "act on impulse."

When you and I do foolish things, or rash things, or reckless things, it isn't because we've been swept by a surge of emotion over which we have no control. It's because we've been getting ready to do those things for many a year—building a foundation for them by countless decisions or evasions.

Every thought you think is shaped and colored by all the thoughts that have gone before. Every deed you commit bears a pattern of all your past desires or experiments, back and back to the first conscious efforts of your babyhood days.

There is no such a thing as an unimportant thought or act. Your slightest whimsey leaves its mark upon your character for good or evil. And the thing that you think in the most secret places of your heart today will some day be broadcast in a public act for all men to see. Fate isn't an old woman with shears in her hand—as the ancients imagined. Fate is your own will, grinding its daily grist of good and evil.

* * *

ALL of which may seem a little depressing, if you look back on the trail and realize what an idiot you've made of yourself at times.

But there is, thank heaven, another side to the picture. If you could have saved yourself by right decisions and right thoughts at 20, you can still do so at 40. If once you've made your own hell, you can, by reversing the process, yet make your own heaven. And many of the wisest men have gotten that way by first being the most foolish.

So stop kidding yourself that you're impulsive, and face the grim fact that no act is sudden—no act is casual or unimportant. If you do a thing, it is because you have long wanted to do it. If you don't do it—if at some crisis you turn traitor to yourself—then is is because you have long nursed the seed of cowardice in your own heart.

Then start riding herd on your thoughts. Cut out the drifting and dreaming . . . the secret self-indulgence in malice and envy, fear and hate. Cut out the weakening, the cheapening, the degrading desires that will some day develop into wanton acts, and drive yourself—as you would a rebellious herd—toward a clear and open trail.

Groundhog Day

—By JEAN NEWTON

CANDLEMAS, observed on February 2nd, is known throughout the United States as Groundhog day—anent which the tales are plentiful but all on one theme which can be best and briefly stated in the words of the old adage.

"If Candlemas day be bright and clear
There'll be two winters in that year."

Ever since man can remember, he has set his store as a weather prophet, not on whether March came in like a lion or a lamb, but by the action of the ground-hog or woodchuck when, on February 2nd, he came out of his hole and took a look around.

If the day was bright, the groundhog was sure to be frightened by his shadow on the ground and immediately scuttled back to his hibernating quarters—interpreted as an announcement to all the world that "the half of winter's to come and mair"; but if it was a cloudy, wet or "foul" day, the groundhog, tradition has it, peeked about, sniffed, looked nonchalant and took a walk saying as plainly as anyone could wish, "Winter is gone and will not come again."

Groundhog lore was brought to the United States by European immigrants, though according to some old world versions the bear is the Candlemas weather prophet.

Health And Diet

Much Not Known About Common Cold.

—By DR. CLENDENING

ONE of the reasons that I cannot bring myself to take the extreme alarmist view of the common cold is that I do not believe any serious complications occur from it. The scareheads of pneumonia, sinus disease and middle ear infection are waved in front of the poor victim who is told he must "watch" the cold to prevent these things. What "watch" means nobody knows.

So far as pneumonia is concerned if what is thought to be a cold "runs into" pneumonia, it was pneumonia from the beginning. This opinion of mine was challenged some time ago by the commissioner of health of Massachusetts, who told me that "they thought" at the Harvard Medical school that a great many cases of pneumonia developed from the common cold.

No Certain Method.

Colds may pave the way for sinus infection and throat infection that leads to middle ear infection, but since people with sinus disease "catch cold" very easily, it is difficult to disentangle the data. Nor do I find any certain method by which these complications can be avoided if the common cold occurs, except possibly by staying in bed.

I am willing to offer a personal reward of a thousand dollars for anybody who can prove that pneumonia was caused by the common cold. Full data must be submitted and the decision left with the writer of this column.

Under treatment and prevention, the first thought is of immunization by an antitoxin or anti-serum, such as is used in other infectious disease. Unfortunately, we do not know positively the cause of the common cold and, therefore, we have no positively certain immunizing agent. It is believed to be due to a virus, but it is not certainly proved. Even if so, we are still still in difficulty because the virus diseases present considerable perplexities in their immunity reactions.

Hard to Get At.

The germs for which we have good anti-sera live in the tissue spaces. Viruses live inside the cells and are hard to get at. Under any circumstances, there is no valuable anti-virus vaccine against the common cold yet available.

In treatment, rest in bed is always preached but seldom practiced. In children it certainly should be carried out. The incidence of colds in children is the highest of any age, and the economic loss from putting a child in bed is practically nil.

Drugs give some relief, as do fruit juices, hot mustard footbaths, sweats and inhalations.

But the final study on the value of drugs was made by Dr Diehl, at the University of Minnesota, who pased out white capsules to a large group at the Student Health Clinic. Capsule A had aspirin and phenacetin; capsule B had codeine, and capsule C had sugar. He asked all the students to report the amount of relief. They did not know what was in the capsules; they all thought they were taking the same thing. The results showed that the only marked relief obtained was from the codeine capsules.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Behind John L. Lewis' splatter of anti-Roosevelt fury was one factor which he carefully avoided mentioning. This was the president's persistent private prodding to get Lewis to resume peace negotiations with the AFL.

Lewis bitterly resented this pressure, and it is no secret among his intimates that he developed considerable personal heat against Roosevelt for "needling" him. At their last conference, several days before Lewis entrained for the miners' convention, he staged an angry scene.

The president has had three private talks with John L. in the last six weeks, and each time he has quietly brought up the question of labor peace, despite Lewis' obvious resentment. Several days before the last meeting, Roosevelt conferred with AFL President William Green and told him he thought the time had come to make another serious peace effort. Green said the AFL was ready to resume parleying, but doubted that Lewis wanted peace.

Later Roosevelt told Lewis that he had Green's assurance of the AFL's readiness to renew negotiations, and asked him to co-operate. But John L. hit the ceiling.

He declared that he was signing no "blank checks," that the AFL knew his terms and had refused to accept them, that he saw nothing to be gained by resuming futile palavers that would lead only to more recriminations. Lewis also made it clear that he was fed up with being summoned to the White House and prodded about labor peace.

Roosevelt kept his temper but persisted in his demand that the rival camps make a new harmony effort.

"The country wants peace," he said quietly, "the rank-and-file of both organizations want peace and the labor movement needs peace. It's something that must be done, John."

That terminated the talk. Grimly, Lewis departed.

Note—Strongest influences behind Roosevelt's persistence are two top-flight labor leaders: Dan Tobin, head of the powerful AFL Teamsters' union; and Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and co-founder of the CIO. Both are in constant touch with the president and unswerving in urging that he keep after Lewis and Green.

At their last conference several weeks ago, Tobin told Roosevelt he was going to demand that the AFL executive council, now meeting in Miami, take definite steps toward a new peace parley.

Naval Secretaries.

WHEN the secretary of the navy is twisting the lock of hair over his right temple, he is in a meditative mood and not to be disturbed.

Lewis Compton learned this about Charles Edison when each was one grade lower than he is today. When Edison was assistant secretary, Compton, then his aide, used to open the door cautiously to see if Edison was busy. If the fingers of the right hand were twisting that lock of hair, Compton quietly shut the door.

Today Compton is assistant secretary. He occupies the desk and office formerly used by Edison, who has moved into the secretary's suite. And now the door-peeping act is reversed.

Edison, who has a whimsical sense of humor, comes to Compton's door, as Compton himself used to do, knocks gently, and peeps in to see if his assistant secretary is too busy to see him!

Indicted Democrats.

WHEN you balance up all the income tax and criminal prosecutions brought by the New Deal, it will be seen that about as many Democrats have been hit as Republicans.

Some of the biggest Republicans in the country have been prosecuted, such as Andrew Mellon and Charles E. Mitchell on income taxes, and Richard Whitney for stock market manipulation.

On the Democratic side the New Deal has prosecuted Boss Pendergast of Kansas City, the Louisiana machine, and is now investigating the McNutt machine in Indiana.

Latest move against a Democratic bigwig is the indictment of E. Kehaya, chairman of the Democratic Foreign Language committee. Kehaya was extremely active for Roosevelt during the 1936 campaign and raised considerable money.

The indictment in New York against Kehaya, together with other officials of the Standard Commercial Tobacco company, is on a charge of stock manipulation brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

According to U. S. District Attorney John Cahill in New York, who handled the indictments, Kehaya and his associates juggled their tobacco stocks in such a manner as to cause a loss of four million dollars to the investing public.

Airplane Bottleneck.

A SERIOUS bottleneck is the inside reason for Secretary Morgenthau's mysterious interest in the aviation industry.

Under the stimulation of the U. S. national defense program, plus war orders from Europe, plane manufacturers have built up their production to 17,000 fuselages a year. But airplane motor output has lagged considerably behind. At present only about 12,000 motors are being turned out each year.

This is enough for domestic requirements, but far below the joint demand from the U. S. and the Allies. So the president designated Morgenthau as head of an inter-departmental committee to see what could be done about it.

Air-cooled motors, with which U. S. planes are equipped, are produced chiefly by two concerns, Pratt-Whitney and Wright. Remembering the disasters that befell many industries after over-expansion in the last war, plane makers are chary about increasing their plants beyond domestic business prospects. Some, however, have offered to build additional facilities if the Allies provide the funds.

For the present the motor bottleneck is proving a serious obstacle to providing the Allies with U. S. fighting planes.

His Morning Wash

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I DROVE twenty miles along our valley. Fresh snow creaked beneath the wheels. It clung to the western side of tree trunks and froze there. Evergreens along the forest edge were burdened until each whorl of branches trailed close upon the one below it. The creeks over which the bridges spanned, were frozen and looked like smooth hollows on level land.

I came to an oldtime sandstone farmhouse. Close to the soil the massive blocks were green with moss; above, much of the mortar was weathered out and depressions an inch or more wide were worn away by frost, rain and wind. The harder, metallic portions stood out upon the roughened faces. A huge chimney adorned the eastern end, with a plume of blue-white smoke moving up into the frosty air. Above the house, to the south, towered a steep, snowy hill. There were no devastating ditches, but only well-grassed grazing grounds for sheep and cattle.

Thirty feet west from the kitchen door a fast-flowing spring gushed out of the hillside and murmured audibly as it rippled down into the roadside ditch. A steamy vapor rose from its surface and even now great tufts of lush blue grass, slightly seared at the top, were growing, darkly green, along each bank.

I stood there listening to the hushed movements of the little stream and enjoying the rusticity of the old house, when an old man emerged from the kitchen door and walked laboredly, with a barkless cane, toward the spring. He wore overalls and a patched wamus. The unbuttoned jacket revealed an old fashioned white shirt beneath. He had no hat, which made it more possible for me to see his kindly, ruddy, wrinkled face beneath sparse white hair.

Beside the spring he stooped, got down with difficulty and bathed his shaky hands vigorously. Then he filled his cupped palms with water and splashed the contents over his face, rubbing as he did so. He repeated this performance twice, snorting and shaking the water from his hairy ears. One dripping hand reached for the corner of a large red handkerchief. With this he wiped his moist face and gnarled hands.

I put up my arm to him, and he waved back and smiled. To me he brought remembrance of many other hardy aged Dutch farmers whom I have known to practice this same morning custom.

HOUSE NUMBER PUZZLE BEFORE COUNCIL GROUPS

Study What It Would Cost City If Haphazard System Was Revised.

Mansfield's haphazard system of house numbering which has plagued strangers and natives alike for the past decade may be in for some extensive corrections before long.

Members of two council committees today were studying what the change-over would cost the city. They hope to call a joint meeting within the near future to decide on what should be done.

It is expected their recommendations will go to council calling for an appropriation in the neighborhood of $2,000 to defray the cost revising city records.

As the first move towards the correction of the chance system of making, C. N Shultz, chairman of council's water committee, was checking an estimate prepared by Fred A. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage department, on the cost of changing city billing equipment.

Shultz said the change in the addressograph plates would be necessary should any number changes be made in the city.

Along with the anticipated change-over, Shultz said the purchase of a new machine to replace antiquated equipment in the department also was being considered.

Lingafelter estimated the cost of 17,000 number plates and the new machine at $1,254.

Urges Billing Change.

He also suggested that while the numbering system was being revised that council also consider a change in billing in the water and sewer departments, dividing the city north and south of Park avenue, instead of the present system of east and west of Main street.

This, he said, would distribute more evenly the accounts. Two-thirds of the accounts are now on the west side which results in a lop-sided billing and throws more work on the department employes during the west side colection period.

George Berg, chairman of the street committee, in the meantime was studying a field report submitted to council last year showing the location of all incorrect numbers in the city.

DEER CRASHES BANK

PASADENA, Cal. — (U.P.) — Confused by strange surroundings, a doe deer, that had wandered into the city jumped through the plate-glass window of a bank, and took refuge in the elevator. As it had suffered a broken leg in this too close contact with civilization, a game warden had to be called to shoot it.

Nazi Leaders Seeking 4 Billions More for War Fund

PARTIAL CASH PAY TO LABOR BEING STUDIED

German Economists Consider 21-Point Program to Meet Heavy Arms Spending.

(By United Press)

BERLIN — (U.P.) — Nazi leaders are working on a gigantic economic program intended to raise an additional 10,000,000,000 to 12,000,000,000 marks ($4,000,000,000 to $4,800,000,000) and put the entire national economy more firmly on a war footing, well informed banking circles said today.

It was asserted that a "war finance" fund, to be raised by the transfer of a portion of the annual turnover of business concerns; a "wage-certificate" plan, already discussed; a national public "thrift" campaign and luxury taxes were being considered.

Informants said that there would be 21 points in the entire plan, with the war finance fund and wage-certificate scheme as prospective features.

Experts of the economic, finance and labor ministries and representatives of industrial groups are meeting daily, it was reported, under the chairmanship of Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Nazi No. 2 and economic dictator.

A special committee of experts is being aided by representatives of the biggest banks and insurance companies in working out the financial side of the plan, according to information received.

A "wage-certificate" plan already has been discussed in inspired Nazi publications. According to published reports it would involve paying workers only partly in cash. The rest of their wages would be represented by wage certificates, valid for purchase only of certain designated articles of which Germany has a surplus. It was forecast that a part of salaries might also be paid in the form of non-negotiable "savings certificates."

Such articles as champagne, liquors and possibly tobacco were mentioned as likely to be prime items in any increased luxury tax schedule.

A "national German savings day" might be proclaimed, timed with a general thrift propaganda campaign, it was said.

INDUSTRY HIT BY GAS STRIKE

Layoffs Start Because of Lack of Fuel; Thousands Facing Forced Idleness.

the Toledo industrial peace board, mediating; public health and safety be protected during the strike.

Want Signed Contract.

Efforts were being made to arrange the conference today.

The CIO gas workers went on strike at 7 a. m. yesterday against the affiliated Ohio Fuel Gas and Northwestern Ohio Natural Gas companies to enforce demands for a signed contract and wage increases.

I. A. Ludwig, company manager, said he was attempting to round up enough workers to reopen the west central unit. E. W. Tharpe, Ohio Fuel vice president, said emergency crews from other cities would maintain essential service.

"The union stands ready to assist in any emergency that may arise," said Walter Ross, local president of the union.

The Toledo Industrial Union council (CIO), voting unanimously to assist the gas workers in bringing about "an honorable settlement of the strike," named a city-wide committee of 72 and three sub committees to provide aid for the striking workers 24 hours a day.

Industrial leaders warned that thousands of workers would be made temporarily idle if the strike went on.

The 200 strikers, said by Ross to represent 96 per cent of the companies' production employes, are demanding 12½ per cent wage boosts. The company has offered a 2½ per cent increase and a statement of policy, instead of a signed contract.

YOUTH JAILED

Held After Store Complains He Passed Bad Check.

A Kenton youth who went on a spending spree and left bad checks with several Mansfield merchants was held in jail today for investigation.

Police arrested him last night on North Diamond street after employes of the Richman Bros. company gave them a description of the man. Clerks told officers that the youth had ordered a suit and tendered a check for $23 drawn on a Kenton bank which notified them the youth had no account there.

Tendering a check for $21, also drawn on the same bank, the youth purchased a pair of glasses from A. Tootikian, Mansfield optometrist. He said he had not sent the check to the bank.

Mrs. Harry Dennis, operator of the roller skating rink at the Colesium told police that she cashed a similiar check for $20 giving the youth the money. She said she was told that he would repay her when he received his pay check.

COLLECTIONS ON U. S. TAXES DOWN

Receipts For Ohio 44 Millions Less Than In '38, Check Shows.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Federal tax collections in Ohio during 1939 were nearly $44,000,000 less than 1938 receipts, the treasury department reported today.

Total Ohio collections for last year were $274,700,690 as against $318,687,262 for 1938. The loss was accounted for by income tax receipts, which were $62,000,000 lower than the previous year. Corporation income levies were off $49,000,000 and individual income taxes $23,000,000. These losses were partially made up by gains in receipts from miscellaneous and payroll taxes.

STUDY MOVE IN PENSION SCRAP

Ohio Congressmen Seek to Have Ohio Refund Considered Again.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Ohio house Democrats decided today to ask federal officials to consider again the possibility of paying the state's claim for $1,300,000 in old age pension contributions withheld in October, 1938.

Representative Hunter (D.) said the delegation would confer Monday with Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the social security board in an effort to settle the claim without congressional or legal action.

The board withheld the money during a dispute with former Governor Martin L. Davey, who denied charges that he used the state pension system for political purposes.

TELLS PAPERS TO BE CAUTIOUS

New Ohio State Prexy Urges Care in Criticism of Government Functions.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio State university's new president, Dr. Howard L. Bevis, suggests that newspapers use caution in criticizing the functions of government to avoid "undermining confidence of the people in our public institutions."

"Newspapers are vital to public education," Dr. Bevis told Ohio publishers at the opening yesterday of a two-day meeting. "The press in nearly every instance has been exceedinguy helpful in disseminating education."

The right to criticize, he said, was not only the "constitutional privilege" of newspapers but also their "professional duty."

The Ohio Newspaper Association, select list of Ohio dailies, Associated Ohio Dailies and Buckeye Press group were among organizations holding business sessions.

Associated Ohio Dailies re-elected R. C. Snyder, Sandusky and Norwalk publisher, as president; Spencer Myers, Middletown Journal, vice president; Albert A. Dix, Martins Ferry Times, treasurer, and Frank Spencer, Newark Advocate, secretary. Snyder, ill several months, was unable to attend the meeting.

The Archbold Buckeye won first place for first page and other makeup in the annual Osman C. Hooper newspaper show. Hooper is professor emeritus of journalism at Ohio State University. The Oxford Press took second position and the Washington Court House Times, third, in the weekly paper competition.

TRAFFIC KILLS TWO WOMEN

Wife Hit By Car 24 Hours After Husband Met Death.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—One woman was killed in traffic and another died of injuries today, 24 hours after an auto-streetcar collision that cost the life of her husband.

Mrs. Mary Inez Obermeyer, 28, was struck by a car as she crossed a street in residential Hyde Park.

The second victim was Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Bradley, 45, whose husband, Harold, met death as the two were returning home from a downtown theater at midnight Wednesday.

The three fatalities raised Hamilton's motor toll of the year to 11.

CHOICE BITE

Pooch Never Bit Anyone But a Postman.

SALT LAKE CITY — (AP) — It's just as much a crime to bite postmen as anyone else, ruled City Judge Albert H. Ellett. He condemned "Mike," a sturdy little pit bull, to isolation for six months.

Mike's defense? He never attacked anyone except postmen. It seems a mail carrier once had mistreated him.

BLAME CARDINAL

Italians Denounce Primate of Poland for Rumors.

ROME — (U.P.) — The newspaper Regine Fascista of Cremona has denounced Auguste Cardinal Hlond, primate of Poland now at the Vatican, charging that he was the source of reports of German atrocities in Poland that have been broadcast over the Vatican radio.

It pointed out that Germany had charged Poles with atrocities, and said, "we are not in a position to deny or confirm either the German or Polish versions of the alleged atrocities. We can, however, point out that information regarding reported German atrocities was furnished the Vatican radio station by Cardinal Hlond, who fled from Poland to Rome as soon as he smelled gunpowder in the air.

He could have done far better by remaining silent in Rome, because the church teaches not to flee and if necessary, to increase the ranks of its martyrs."

OFFERS TO MOVE CCC CAMP HERE

Regional Official Asks Mayor If Colored Unit Would Be Acceptable.

Establishment of a Civilian Conservation Corps camp in Richland county was virtually assured today.

This was revealed in a telegram to Mayor William J. Locke in which government officials asked for confirmation on a proposal to move one of its colored units here.

The communication was sent by A. T. Eastman, regional administrator of the CCC soil erosion service at Dayton who asked if the establishment of the colored unit would be acceptable to Mansfield.

Acting on recommendations from the Chamber of Commerce which several weeks ago made the request, Locke immediately notified Eastman of the acceptance.

His communication said that although a white company was preferable, that a colored unit would be acceptable.

The chamber's agriculture committee asked the government to move one of its soil conservation companies to Richland county to aid in soil erosion work here.

Their proposal was submitted offering the government a rent-free tract of 10 acres about 10 miles east of Mansfield.

RED BOMBERS RAID AGAIN IN HELSINKI AREA

Towns and Villages Bombed In Latest Assault; Finns in New Victory Claims.

ma had been halted, but said that severe fighting was still continuing there and spreading to other points in the Carelian Isthmus.

A Moscow war communique said that "nothing of importance occurred at the front" but Russian planes "reconnoitered and bombed military objectives" and shot down three Finnish planes.

The assault against the Summa sector of the Mannerheim line was preceded by a six-hour artillery barrage, after which the actual attack got under way, supported by 130 bombing planes.

Russian tanks led the way, pushing large armored sleds before them, the sleds being armed with machine guns.

Behind the tanks came the Soviet infantry, under cover of a smoke screen, but despite the extent of the attack, Finnish authorities said the main assault had been turned back and that fighting was continuing in no man's land.

They added that a majority of the 15 Russian artillery batteries supporting the attack had been silenced by Finnish guns and that at other points on the Isthmus Finnish batteries had dispersed a Red troop column, destroying two tanks, shot down a Soviet plane and wrecked two Russian observation posts.

Raids Lead to New Plea for Airplanes.

HARARANDA, Sweden, On The Finnish Frontier—(U.P.)—Finland's appeal for foreign airplanes became urgent today after a bombing raid by 43 fast two-motored Russian planes on Rovaniemi, general headquarters of the Finnish northeastern and northern armies.

The people of Rovaniemi expressed belief that Russia intended to destroy the city by systematic raids and they were urging that only the immediate receipts of planes from nations friendly to Finland could stop the raids.

Two Russian planes were shot down during yesterday's raid.

The Russian planes dropped bombs ranging from 25-pound incendiary ones to great 500-pound demolition bombs.

Twenty bombs, mostly heavy ones, dropped in the immediate vicinity of a hospital without hitting it direct. In the two days' raids two nurses at this hospital were killed and eight wounded, some seriously.

Buildings elsewhere without military value, including two churches, have been wrecked or damaged.

Moscow Says She'll Destroy 'Bandits.'

LONDON —(U.P.)— The Moscow radio, less than a day after the statement of President Kyosti Kallio of Finland that Finland was ready to negotiate an honorable peace, broadcast today an editorial from the newspaper Pravda, official organ of the Communist party, asserting that "the Finnish bandits will be destroyed and exterminated."

"We will achieve victory over them under our great leader Stalin," the editorial continued.

There was no indication whether the editorial, from today's issue of the newspaper, was a reply to Kallio's speech.

The Moscow radio broadcast excerpts from the Pravda editorial. The principal one was, textually:

"Since the Anglo-French imperialists provoked a new war they tried to drag in the Soviet by instigating the white Finnish scum to attack us. The Finnish bandits will, however, be destroyed. We will achieve victory over them under our great leader Stalin."

Balkans Consider New Neutrality Plan.

BELGRADE —(AP)— The representatives of the four Balkan entente partners, their interests increasingly divergent, gathered today to find a way to keep out of Europe's war—perhaps with some sort of straddle.

A plan for "economic neutrality" under which Rumania, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia would sell supplies both to Germany and the allies but only to the extent of normal, peacetime trade was first for discussion in the closed conference.

The plan appeared to be Rumania's desperate substitute for her original request for ironclad military guarantees from her partners, to be invoked if necessary against either Germany or Soviet Russia. It seemed plain Rumania could not win such promises.

The plan was supported by Rumania and Yugoslavia, according to reliable reports, as the best means of keeping the present battle of trade from turning into a battle of blood.

Turkey, bound to the British-French allies with mutual assistance treaties, and Greece, guaranteed against attack by the Allies, were understood to be less enthusiastic.

Rumania also has received pledges from the Allies of all support in their power to resist any threat to her independence but these promises have not appreciably curbed her fears.

Her position perhaps is the most perlious of all neutral states.

Turkey and Greek trade with Germany has greatly diminished since the war started, replaced by larger sales to the Allies. For these nations to return to pre-war quotas might mean severe economic disturbances.

Thus anything agreed upon along the line of "economic neutrality" is likely to represent a compromise between the two northern Balkan states — Rumania and Yugoslavia—and the two other entente members who are further removed by geography from a possible German push.

Loudonville Man Admits Guilt After Accident Near Lucas.

Arrested on charges of unsafe driving as the result of an accident Thursday afternoon on route 39, two miles east of Lucas, Herman L. Menchofer, 23, of Loudonville, pleaded guilty to the charges and was fined $10 and costs today in municipal court.

Menchofer was arrested by highway patrolmen after his car sideswiped an auto driven by Homer Leo Wright, 42, of Bexley.- Menchofer, traveling west, told officers he took his eyes off the road to repair the defroster on his car, and swerved into the path of the Wright car.

Wright's car was turned over patrolmen said, but neither driver was injured.

MR. G. WARNS OF 'BLITZKRIEG'

Emerges From Snooze, Casts Shadow Like Warcloud, Sees 'Blackout.'

Mansfield began to receive calls about trucks and cars stalled on icy hills and traffic tie-ups.

A procession of vehicles headed by a truck was unable to make an icy grade three and a half miles south of here on route 13 and traffic was tied up in both directions for 20 minutes. The highway patrol called for cinders from the highway department and as soon as the hills were cindered traffic got under way again and both routes 42 and 13 were cleared by 9:30 p. m., the patrol reported.

The state highway department said that the roads in all sections of the state, except in the Cincinnati and Dayton areas, were slippery and hazardous this morning but it was expected that a bright sun would clear them during the day. The sleet caused cancellation of all airplane flights out of Cleveland.

In the Mansfield area the temperature had climbed to nine degrees at 9 a. m. today and to 17 at noon. The forecast is for partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; and colder in the extreme southern portion of the area.

While the grounhog was the focal point of interest today, State Conservation Commissioner Don Waters took opportunity to ask for protection for him. He said that Mr. G. is valuable in the state's game program, because he digs holes in the ground which the rabbits use for their winter homes and which provide shelter for pheasant when bombardment gets heavy during the hunting season.

This Proves Mr. G Knows His Calendar

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O.—(AP)—Frank Tracy swears by this story about his pet groundhog Chuck.

Eighty-eight days ago Chuck started his winter nap under the porch of Tracy's home. To make sure he knew when Chuck emerged, Tracy rigged up a trap door with an alarm attachment.

Today — groundhog day—the alarm sounded. Chuck came out, saw his shadow in the snow and scratched at the trap to get back to bed, apparently heading for another six week's winter snooze.

WHY VITAMIN B1

Severe deficiency of vitamin B1 (Thiamin Chloride) produces the symptoms known as beriberi. This disease is not often seen in modern communities. But the milder deficiencies of vitamin B1 are quite frequent. Deficiency of this factor may result in impaired appetite, retarded growth, lack of "tone" of the intestinal tract; these lead to various digestive disturbances, constipation, fullness or distention and impaired nutrition with resulting fatigue. In the absence of vitamin B1, there is marked functional disturbance of the nervous system. Not only does polyneuritis (beriberi) develop but in prolonged partial deficiency there may be cardiac manifestations with their accompanying complications, as well as the polyneuritis of pregnancy evidenced by extreme nausea.

Summa said that the case cigners at the Imperial hotel and "probably will be transferred from the home department to the department of justice."

Article 99 provides that anyone publishing or disseminating rumors regarding military affairs in time of war or emergency may be sentenced to a maximum of three years' imprisonment. Articles 2 and 3 stipulate that the charges can be applied to persons not engaged in military service and with reference to actions taking place outside of Japanese territory.

Summa declined to elaborate further, stating that the case is still under investigation. He disclosed he had received a number of cablegrams from newspapermen in the United States on Young's behalf, but stated that the matter was outside his jurisdiction.

(Editor's note: A Reuter dispatch from Tokyo received in London stated that Young would be tried "by a civil court.")

Informally Speaking...

NEWS of all the lucky folks who are having winter vacations in warm, sunny climes is predominate today—with Florida, Texas and even the Panama Canal Zone sharing in the sunshine spotlight.

MR. AND MRS. S. R. BAIRD left today for a two-weeks' sojourn in Miami, Fla. . . . They will be accompanied on the trip by Mrs. V. A. Seifert of Massillon, and her husband, who will join them at Eatonton, Ga., on their way down.

* * *

A CRATE of luscious Florida oranges and kumquats arrived at the Glenn W. Marriott home this week—a gift from Mrs. Lyman Lantz, who's visiting with relatives and friends in her former home, St. Petersburg. . . . Mr. Lantz and his mother, Mrs. Charles Lantz, are planning to go down to St. Petersburg soon for a vacation—then the three of them will return later in the season. . . . And speaking of the Marriotts, their son, Howard, is at home now for a vacation between semesters at Ohio Wesleyan university in Delaware. . . . Howard is a sophomore at the school this year, you know, and a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity.

* * *

Enough to make most all of us turn green with envy was the card just received from Mrs. Frank Michael, who's in Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, now with her husband. . . . She writes that she spends most of her time in play shorts and a bathing suit—lolling in the sunshine and going swimming. . . . You probably recall that Mrs. Michael (who was formerly Alice Parkinson of this city) went to Panama early in January to join her husband, who has been stationed there as a construction engineer for the U. S. government since last October.

* * *

THERE'S really no need to be too perturbed over those southern vacationists though, because the recent low temperatures have been practically nationwide. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schiska (she was Mary Katherine Tawse before her January wedding) returned from Florida much sooner than they'd expected to, because it was so cold down there—and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Matthes also came back early for the same reason.

* * *

Even Texas has been suffering from the chilling blasts. . . . In a letter this week to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Almy, Gene Almy writes that that state has been experiencing the coldest days on record since 1886. . . . Gene (who's been working for the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company in San Antonio since November) says that when that city had its first snowfall in 11 years, the citizens made the most of it—no children went to school, snowmen were built in every yard and snowballs were thrown everywhere—the business district included, with policemen, firemen and city officials right in among the rest!

* * *

TOMORROW will be an important day for Sue George (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. George) as she's sailing aboard the City of New York from New York for Capetown, South Africa . . . She will be the traveling companion of Mrs. Leonard Gavett of Annapolis, Md.—and will be gone for about six months.

* * *

AND IN CONCLUSION: To make sure that their mid-winter vacation will be filled with sunshine and balmy breezes, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shumaker are going to Mexico City—they're leaving this week-end to drive down for six weeks or so. . . . Laura Konrad and Mrs. Gertrude Kaufman will entrain for New York City tomorrow for a week's business and pleasure trip.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

MARY CAME swiftly across the room and slipped her arm through that of our young royal visitor.

"Come on!" she said, propelling Olina toward the door. "I have a hunch you're going to trim me, and I like to get my beatings over with"

"Well! lioness tamer!" Lillian exclaimed admiringly. "You've certainly turned the trick. That girl's as harmless as a kitten now. What's the secret? She looks as if she'd seen the light."

"She has," I retorted grimly.

"What particular brand of blackmail did you employ?"

"I told her," I said, "that if she wished me to approve her having a role in my play, she must promise me to leave Noel and Mary strictly alone."

Lillian came over to me and gravely tapped me three times on the head.

"Modern version of 'Kneel Squire, rise Sir Knight'," she said. "But seriously speaking, old girl, that was a stroke of genius. What do you think her chances are for getting the role?"

"It all depends upon how well she plays the harp," I answered. "Her future step-father made that very plain to her."

"That must have been a pleasant little pill for her to swallow."

"She didn't like it," I said, "but she really took it very well."

"Oh! she's game all right," Lillian commented. "How do you think she will do in the role?"

"Excellent," I returned. "I think I discount Olina's estimate of her own ability as much as Philip does—we simply are not sure how much of her opinion is over-confidence—but Olga, who at first was secretly horrified at the idea of her daughter's appearing in public in a professional role, later told me that Olina was really very good."

"That settles it then," Lillian said. "Olga isn't the type of mother goose who thinks her offspring is a swan. I imagine Olina is pretty sure to get her chance, and that will mean Mary's deliverance from a petty persecution that was getting my goat rapidly."

"Mine too." I assented. "And now, I suppose I would better go and see Olga."

"That procedure appears to be indicated," she gibed, smiling. "If you think she's in a receptive mood, give her my love, and tell her I approve the recent news very highly."

"I shall tell her nothing of the kind," I said severely. "That is no way to treat a Queen, as Katie would tell you."

"How then?" she queried, laughing.

"No, I'm serious," I said soberly. "You know how much Olga thinks of both you and Katharine I know that some time today she will want to see you both and talk to you about her news. Will you tell Katharine about it, please, while I am gone, and will both of you be prepared to come over to Olga's apartment if she should ask for you?"

"Yes, to both questions," she answered, and the next minute I was out of the room and walking down the corridor to Queen Olga's room.

She welcomed me affectionately, and I saw by her starry eyes that she had just passed one of the emotional milestones which are so rare in this prosaic world.

"How beautiful you are Olga!" I exclaimed admiringly, and a tender smile played around her lips.

"Thank you, Madge," she said. "I don't know about that, but I do know that I am very happy, happier than I dreamed I ever could be again And I wanted you to be the first to know, except, of course, Olina. Philip did ask me again"—she smiled mischievously—"and I have accepted him, just as I stand, without a penny to my name"

I went up to her, took her in my arms and kissed her warmly, for I knew intuitively that she craved womanly comradeship.

"I wish you all happiness, my dear, but I must tell you that your future husband does not intend you to be penniless He is again insistent that I get the name of your jeweler without your guessing why it is wanted"

"Front Page" Revamped.

The first—and the greatest—of all stage and screen plays revolving around a newspaper was "The Front Page," which the two bad boys of Chicago newspaperdom, Ben Hecht and George MacArthur, authored It was based on real characters, especially that of Hildy Johnson, the great Chicago reporter. Now it has been remade. Entirely remade, one guesses, from the fact that romance is the predominating factor and Hildy of Chicago legend, has been made into a girl reporter. "His Girl Friday," with Cary Grant as the hard nosed editor, Rosalind Russell as the newspaper woman, and Ralph Bellamy as the third figure in the romance, opens at the Ohio tomorrow.

"Tropic Fury," with Richard Arlen and Beverly Roberts is the second film.

Music and Romance.

Another and a different chapter of Western history is told in "In Old Monterey," at the Park Gene Autry is a corporal in the United States army who is assigned to the difficult task of convincing ranchers of the Dry Lake area that they should permit the government to confiscate their lands. There's music and romance, as in all Autry films. On the same bill is "Hidden Power" with Jack Holt.

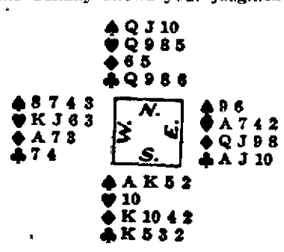
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP ON YOUR TRACK

IF YOU have made an original lead of a trump, to keep the dummy from ruffing out losers in the declarer's side suit, you may be attacking him in his most vulnerable spot It is logical to expect the dummy to be short in that suit, since he had a chance to choose between them and preferred the other one When the exposing of the dummy shows your judgment to have been correct in the first place, you must keep up the attack in order to accomplish your purpose.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable)

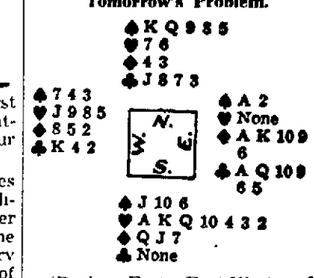
One of the greatest differences between rubber bridge and duplicate is found in the vastly larger importance of "little" hands in the match point game, because every deal produces the same number of match points One like this, with strength nearly balanced between the two sides, can produce the same match points as a grand slam freak. It therefore meant everything to East and West to set the contract of 2-Spades doubled.

East had bid 1-Club, South 1-Diamond, West 1-Heart, East 2-Hearts, South 2-Spades, and West doubled, following with a lead of the spade 3, won by the 10 South promptly led the diamond 6 to the J, K and A, and West then switched to the club 7, won by South's K. The diamond 2 then ran to the 8. East laying down the club A and the club J for West to ruff He returned the heart 3 to the A, the next heart was ruffed by South, then a diamond led for a ruff in dummy. A heart was now ruffed by the spade K, another diamond by the spade Q, another heart by the spade A, and the last trick was given up, just making the contract.

Had the defenders led a trump at every chance they had, following a good start, they would have prevented declarer from ruffing out any diamond losers and would have beaten the contract regardless of what the declarer tried.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer East East-West vulnerable)

What is the correct final contract on this deal, and what bidding by the two sides is the soundest leading toward it?

CHAPTER XV

After a time, when the organist had long since gone, Claire found herself again reviewing her situation. She wondered about Roland. Thinking of him and his apparently close friendship with Maria and Rene and even Noel Yorke, she asked herself whether she had fallen into a trap.

Should she trust Rene and Noel, or "Z. Y.," as he persisted in being known to her, as implicitly as she had? Her life was literally in their hands and if she had been misled, betrayal might be a matter of minutes. She might have been led on deliberately, with the chance of seeing Bill Cameron held out to her as bait.

Were "Z. Y" and Rene Martin German spies, too? She didn't believe it possible, and yet seeing Roland in Frau Weber's shop had given her reason to doubt every one.

But Rene Martin? Surely she could trust him. If ever she had met a Frenchman who seemed loyal to the core, Captain Martin certainly was. But again she recalled his friends—acquaintances at least. The Rolands? She had met them at Maria Herczek's flat. Rene Martin had been there, too. But Maria Herczek? Who was she? A Russian of the old regime, she said, and evidently Martin was in love with her.

These thoughts swirled in her mind as she prepared to leave the church for the uncertainties of another visit to Frau Weber's shop.

When Claire left the church, it was nearly five o'clock and growing cold outside. She thanked the impulse that had led her to wear a warm suit. As she hurried along she dug into her purse, got her gloves and pulled them on her hands.

Fortunately, every one seemed intent on his own affairs and she attracted much less attention than she ordinarily did on a Paris street where any pretty girl is certain to draw stares.

Although the streets were well crowded, most of the pedestrians were women and Claire was reminded that it was wartime by the few able-bodied men to be seen. Even the police, wearing steel helmets and brown uniforms, stationed at the intersections to keep traffic moving were not the same trim, alert figures she remembered when she and Cameron had visited the capital several months before.

They, apparently, like most of the other younger men were at the front and their places had been taken by older, fatter men who had been drafted from the home guard. Their uniforms, more than the men themselves, made her nervous, representing as they did the spirit of wartime Nazism, and she felt a definite uplift in spirits when she saw Frau Weber's little store a few doors away.

* * *

The bell seemed to tinkle a merry welcome as she swung the door and stepped into the dimly lighted room. Her feeling of relief vanished as she noted several persons in the shop and she was glad, when she caught Frau Weber's eye, to see the woman gesture with her head toward the back room. She moved slowly back to the door through which George Roland had vanished that morning, and glanced curiously around as she entered. Apparently it was a storeroom for surplus stock, and one whole side of the wall was lined with shelves on which were boxes presumably holding stationery, envelopes and other supplies.

There were two rather nondescript chairs back against the wall from a pot-bellied stove which glowed dully with heat. One small electric light globe of small candle power provided the only illumination. A heavy door at the back apparently gave out onto an alley and there was one small window high in the wall, which was covered with a metal grill.

Claire had been sitting most of the day, and it was a relief to stand near the stove and warm herself. She became a bit uncomfortable after several minutes and had just removed her gloves and loosened her suit jacket when the inner door opened and Frau Weber stepped in, leaving the door ajar.

"I have a minute or two, but this is my busiest time of the day," she explained. "If any one enters I shall hear the bell. Listen to me closely while I tell you what to do."

"Go ahead," Claire said. "I'm listening."

"Good. The key in your purse unlocks the back door here. Use it, relock it from the outside and then walk up the alleyway to the right. A dozen steps or so you will come to a stairway. It is the first one, as you can't miss it. Go up to the second floor, turn to the right and open the first door with your key and go in. Lock the door after you, turn on the light switch and make yourself at home. Wait there. I will come as quickly as I can. Understand?"

Claire nodded. Then they heard the bell tinkle on the front door.

"Go quickly," Frau Weber whispered, and Claire inserted her key in the lock, opened it and stepped out into the alley. As she closed it, she saw the woman reentering the store and closing the door to the little room after her.

* * *

It was almost dark in the alley, but Claire easily found the stairway and mounted it to the second floor. She had a moment of fear as she inserted her key in the lock of the first door she came to, wondering if she were getting herself deeper into a trap that would cost her liberty and maybe her life. She had an impulse to turn and run, but realized the utter folly of such a thing. She was in this far, now. She had to go through — through to the end, come what might.

The key turned easily, she stepped inside, locked the door and then fumbled for a light switch. She found it near the door and felt better when the room - a comfortably furnished living-room — was brightly illuminated. She saw there were heavy draperies over the windows, and knew instinctively that not a stray beam could escape outside to betray the presence of any one in the apartment.

A small gas heater was glowing faintly in the mouth of a false fireplace, and the room was fairly warm. She looked carefully about the place, locating two small bedrooms opening off the living-room and a tiny kitchen and an equally small bath. The latter was so small that there ws scarcely room to turn around between the old-fashioned high tin tub and the wall.

Both bedrooms, like most European sleeping chambers, lacked clothes closets. Instead, there were huge chests, one to each room, against the walls which served as wardrobes. Claire was familiar with them.

* * *

The flat was furnished decently but very plainly. There were several rather heavy chairs in the living-room, a table in the center of the room on which there were several magazines, and a small couch at one side of the fireplace. Beside the couch was a small table on which a reading lamp was placed. There were several books on the shelf under the table. Glancing at them, Claire saw that a heavy thick volume was a paper-backed edition of "Mein Kampf," by Adolph Hitler.

Above the fireplace was a large framed lithograph of Hitler, with two swastika flags draped over the top of it. The room was warm and Claire had just removed her jacket and hat when she heard a key in the door. She was frightened, but didn't know what to do, and a moment later a girl walked in.

The girl looked at Claire without surprise, and smiled as she introduced herself.

"I'm Lili Weber," she said, holding out her hand. Claire took it and introduced herself to the girl who was about her own age. Lili was simply dressed, with a long black coat over what were obviously working clothes. She removed a colored scarf from her head and revealed shiny blond hair, which had been braided and wound neatly about her head.

"Mother said you were here," the girl said and, tossing her coat on a chair, went into the kitchen. "Hungry?" she called.

Claire realized she hadn't eaten since morning, when she had but a light breakfast.

"Yes," she answered. "I'm starved."

"I'll make a cup of chocolate for you before I start dinner, then."

* * *

Despite Claire's protests, Lili soon emerged from the kitchen bearing a cup of the steaming beverage on a small tray. It was slightly bitter because of the lack of sugar, but it tasted good to the American girl.

She offered to help Lili prepare the dinner, and went out into the kitchen to watch but the girl refused her help.

"I have to use so many substitutes that I'm afraid you wouldn't know how to cook them," she explained.

"It's pretty bad, isn't it?" Claire asked, sympathetically. Lili glanced quickly at her before she answered, then nodded her head.

"I'm luckier than many, though," she said. "I get one good meal a day at the factory."

"Oh, what sort of work do you do?"

"Load shells in a munitions plant. I was a teacher, but what schools are left are now handled by older women. We younger ones must do helpful work—the sort of thing I am doing."

Claire examined the girl closely as she went busily about the small kitchen.

VISIT PLANT

School Heads, Teachers to Be Guests of Westinghouse.

Mansfield school heads and teachers will be guests of Westinghouse for an entertainment, luncheon and trip through the Mansfield plant next Wednesday night.

A program for the school group will be given shortly after 7 p. m. in the Westinghouse auditorium and then the principals and teachers will be taken on an inspection trip through the plant. A buffet luncheon will be served later.

Invitations were sent to the principals and teachers by H W. Arlin, supervisor of industrial relations at the Westinghouse plant and president of the Mansfield board of education.

Arlin's letter said "The management of our company has always been interested in the educational facilities of the communities in which its plants are located, and we believe that this occasion will give our local teachers a better appreciation of some of the industrial life of Mansfield."

Long Courtships Are Espoused By English Lecturer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(INS)—Admitting there might be such a thing as "Love at First Sight," Mrs. Ethel Nash, English writer and lecturer, told a Christ Church "marriage forum," it is extremely rare and should be avoided.

Mrs. Nash urges a courtship of at least a year, in which time many causes of marital disputes can be ironed out in advance.

She advised listeners to make friends with the opposite sex before thinking of falling in love. It is possible to make these friends through many of the clubs and social organizations.

These groups also tend to raise artificial barriers to friendship, she said.

The tiny, hair-thin tungsten filament of an incandescent lamp emits light at a temperature higher than any other artificial heat ordinarily encountered by man.

HOSPITAL CLOSES

NEW YORK—(INS)—More than 800,000 persons suffering from various disorders of the eye have received free medical treatment at the Herman Knapp Memorial Eye hospital which ended a 70-year-old career recently. As the last patients were discharged and the doors of the institution closed, it was announced that its activities would be resumed at the Presbyterian Medical Center.

Mail Fraud Hinted In 'Scandal Plot' Against Dies

TESTIMONY AT SECRET PROBE UNDER STUDY

House Post Office Employe Reported Involved in Attacks on Chairman.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Dies committee's investigation of the use of forgery in a "scandal plot" to discredit it, which rocked the house this week, took a new turn today as evidence of a possible violation of the postal laws was revealed.

The committee heard testimony in a secret session, it was learned, which involved an employe of the house post office, the appointee of a Pennsylvania congressman, and two others in the use of the mails in the attack upon Chairman Martin Dies.

While the committee guarded details of this phase of the investigation, it was revealed that postal inspectors were asked to review the testimony. This testimony was said to involve the delivery of letters without proper stamping, presumably in an effort to avoid possible violation of mail fraud laws.

Meantime, congressional backers of the Dies committee demanded that the expose of the alleged plot to ruin the character of its chairman be carried through.

Meets on Resolution.

The house rules committee tentatively agreed to meet Monday to consider a resolution expunging from the congressional record the attack made upon Dies by Rep. Frank E. Hook (D) of Michigan. Hook had sought to connect Dies with the "Christian Front" and William Dudley Pelley, leader of the "Silver Shirts."

This followed refusal of Rep. Frank B. Keefe (R) of Wisconsin to permit Hook to voluntarily withdraw from the record extracts from letters which, according to testimony given the Dies committee, were forged. Keefe acted because Hook refused to make an unqualified admission that the documents were fraudulent.

Hook conceded that doubt was cast upon the authenticity of the letters because David Mayne, from whom they were obtained, testified that he "tricked" foes of the Dies committee and sold them forged documents.

At the same time, he said, Mayne swore before Wayne Birdsell, a notary public, that they were genuine. He said he would withhold judgment pending a report from the Department of Justice to which he said, photograph copies of the letters were submitted.

Wishes for Peace Gaining, Former Kaiser Declares

NEW YORK — (INS) — Recent events in Europe have convinced former Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany that the western belligerents would make peace and join forces in a drive to smash Bolshevism, it was revealed today by Poultney Bigelow, his intimate friend and biographer in America.

The heroic stand of the Finns against the Russians has given impetus to a universal desire for peace, the former German emperor wrote Bigelow.

The significant belief of the former kaiser was contained in a letter mailed from Wilhelm's home in exile at Doorn, Holland, last Jan. 16.

Bigelow made public the following brief excerpt from the former kaiser's letter:

"The magnificent stand of the Finns has smashed the nimbus of Bolshevism and set people thinking—with the result that the wish for peace is gaining ground.

"The belligerents should stop fighting and join forces to help the Finns. They should fight in one line to rid the world and civilization of Bolshevism."

Agricultural Boom Due, Ohio Farmers Told

Up and Down THE STREET

Opening of the 1940 football season at Senior high school is still a long way off but J. Merton Holcombe, director of the high school band, is getting ready for it. The 64 students who will comprise the "varsity" band have been named by Holcombe and each member has been assigned a number designating his place in the field marching formations.

The fact that one Br'er Groundhog in Mansfield didn't see his shadow today means nothing, except that he was too lazy to get out of doors. Nor has he been asleep all winter, as good little groundhogs are supposed to be. He's slept plenty, in a warm little box in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Johns, 47½ West First street, but he has been wide awake when it was meal time. The little woodchuck was captured last spring near Mifflin when his mother was killed. He's been a tame pet and subsists largely on cookies and nuts.

It's a little early to be thinking about the Fourth of July, but yesterday officials of the Public Park association signed the contract for the fireworks show at the Fairgrounds. A clause in the contract says: "It is agreed that the display is to excel any and all displays previously held by party of the second part (association) or party of the first part will forfeit amount involved." The contract calls for 70 set pieces and 1,037 shell and aerial pieces. The money to pay for the community celebration is still to be raised and officials hope this will be done with the home talent show, "Rollin' Rhythm," to be staged Feb. 22 and 23.

The county grand jury's report was delayed an hour this morning when one of the jurors got "lost" while the jury was making its routine inspection of the county jail. Returning to the courthouse, Prosecutor G. W. Marriott found that there were only 14 jurors when there should have been 15. A check-up revealed that a Mansfield juror, an elderly woman, had thought her work was over when deliberations were completed and had gone home. Her signature was necessary to make the jury's report legal, so Foreman George Tobias brought her back to sign it and everything was all right.

VILLAGE HIT ON COAL PURCHASE

Examiner Finds Ohio Town Bought $1,066 in Coal From Council Member.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — State Examiner John A. Crowley reported findings for recovery of $4,521.86 today in an examination of village accounts of Mercer county covering the period from July 31, 1936, to Sept. 11, 1939.

He was especially critical of alleged illegal expenditures reported in favor of the village of Coldwater, finding several apparent violations of the law which prohibit a public official or employe from having an interest in any public expenditure other than his fixed compensation.

"The audit of expenditures discloses," he said, "numerous instances wherein public funds were expended contrary to law. The flaunting of the general laws of Ohio in the face of repeated citations therefore is most reprehensible and necessitates the recommendation that the village mayor . . . . institute action to recover the amounts illegally expended."

Crowley returned a finding for $1,066.03 against Richard Birkmeyer and the Birkmeyer Coal, Tile and Coke company on the grounds that it had sold supplies to the village while S. Birkmeyer was a councilman.

He made a finding of $216.15 against Oliver Gast for labor and materials, based on the assertion that at the time of the transaction, J. R. Gast was a councilman.

A finding for $206.66 was made against Fox & Hess for coal sold while R. W. Hess was a councilman.

MINERS GO HOME AFTER LEWIS WARNS U. S. STATESMEN ON WAR

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Their task completed, 2400 delegates to the United Mine Workers' golden jubilee convention left Columbus today for their homes in 27 states to report to their locals that their accomplishments included voting, in effect, to sever political relations with the Roosevelt administration.

The convention, which was highlighted by criticism of New Deal agencies, policies and leaders, ended late yesterday, when UMW President John L. Lewis in his farewell speech warned that labor would "hold to strict account" any statesman who sought to involve America in a foreign conflict.

Lewis avoided any direct reference in his closing address to actions and speeches criticizing the Democratic administration he once supported ardently. Indirectly, however, he declared that the UMW would continue its attempts to play a prominent role in any national drama involving the welfare of workers and the unemployed.

Only a routine business session of the union's international executive board remained on the program.

The final resolution adopted by delegates proposed that the union endeavor to establish a uniform six-hour day and 30-hour, five-day week, and seek a higher wage scale throughout the nation when the present contract with coal operators expires in March, 1941.

Also on the last day, delegates voted down overwhelmingly a proposal to establish a uniform strike benefit fund.

SPEAKER SAYS PRODUCE PRICES WILL INCREASE

Marketing Specialist Claims European War Will Benefit Farm Folk Soon.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O.—With the prediction ringing in their ears that a farm boom due to the European war was on its way, farmers at the 28th annual farm week at Ohio State university took in the last sessions today as attendance marks continued to shatter all records.

H. B. Price, University of Kentucky marketing specialist, told the farmers that all farm prices would be affected favorably by the war, and that growers of wheat, corn, oats and barley would receive direct benefits. Meat products prices will be increased by the export demand, he said, and wool prices will go up.

Fruit and vegetable growers, while not receiving any direct benefits, will derive help from a better domestic market, he predicted.

At the end of the fourth day, official attendance was 11,492, surpassing the entire week's mark of 1939, when 11,260 attended. Approximately 13,000 registrations are expected before the day is out.

Wheeler McMillen, editor of the Farm Journal and president of the National Farm Chemurgic council, said that national recovery depended upon the farmers' ability to grow everything needed in this country.

He urged that every state appropriate $25,000 for the study of new crops, and recommended "self-help" for farmers rather than government aid.

L. J. Taber, master of the national grange, also criticized bonus payments to the farmer. He declared that the subsidies were not compensation for the burdens the government is adding to agriculture.

"We dare not let American agriculture rely permanently on the taxpayer for a substantial part of his income," he declared. "We must give the farmer a chance to achieve equality of opportunity and reward."

FAIR ENOUGH!

If A. F. of L. Leadership Were Honest, It Would Kick Out the Criminals

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Most speakers and writers on the subject of labor organization invariably modify their amiable criticism of racketeering in the unions of the American Federation of Labor with the proviso that, of course, the organization as a whole and its subsidiaries are governed by able, conscientious men and the dishonest union official is a rare exception to a high standard.

This has become a formula, adopted as a means of showing that the speaker or writer is not hostile to Labor, with a capital L, and only hopes that, for labor's own sake, steps will be taken to delouse the structure of the vermin which crawl in its walls.

From that opinion I have to dissent to the extreme of saying that, in my opinion, the American Federation of Labor is rotton with extortion and racketeering, much of which is presumed to be legal only because nobody has ever taken the trouble to show that it is illegal, and much of which is just plain criminal.

* * *

I have recently named two racketeers in control of two big A. F. of L. international unions, but I could name a hundred thieves and gangsters, embezzlers and terrorists who hold office in unions of the American Federation of Labor.

They infest the A. F. of L. to such a degree that the organization has negligently lost its right to public respect as a labor movement and has become the front for a privileged terror obviously comparable to the Mafia of Sicily. The Mafia, too, began with high motives, but as it developed power became a terroristic organization.

The A. F. of L. issues charters to subsidiary unions, which, in turn, issue charters to locals, but the parent organization claims to have no authority over its subsidiaries of any degree, and the federal government, for reasons of political tact, refuses to interfere on behalf of the rank and file members or the public interest.

The bureau of internal revenue, which harries honest individual citizens for a few dollars more of income tax and compels them to produce old checks, stubs, contracts and receipts in worrisome and ill-intended inquiries into private affairs, which are no business of any government agency, has a fixed policy or ignoring the books of labor rackets, even though they are notoriously crooked, merely because they possess union charters.

* * *

A union is held to be non-taxable as to its income unless that income inures to the benefit of individuals, but the possession of a charter is deemed to be a sufficient guarantee that the funds are honestly administered.

Therefore the accounts are not even questioned, while business firms and individuals are compelled to submit to the most searching and often the most impudent and insincere inspections.

A greasy racketeer up from the pandering and bootlegging trades is protected from inquiry as to his thievings and his extortions by the assumption that the funds of the union of which he is boss have not inured to his benefit, when it is obvious to any observer that he would not be in the union racket if he were not getting his.

If he reports his union salary and allowances and pays the tax on the salary, deducting the allowances from his income, there is no inquiry into the spread between these book figures and the graft which he takes down from a union whose books are inviolate or from employers.

* * *

The rottenness of the American Federation of Labor is demonstrated in one dramatic particular by the case of Willie Bioff, whose history need not be reviewed again just now. Did William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, say one word about Bioff when his record was disclosed, when it was shown that this fugitive from a jail sentence in Chicago had become, by appointment and not by any vote of the union rank and file, the boss of the theatrical and movie trades, or when it developed that he had become a rich man on a modest union salary? Mr. Green did not.

But Bioff is only one of many gangster labor leaders in the A. F. of L. not counting the rodent enemies of labor and of the public who have been driven out by Tom Dewey in New York.

So I don't subscribe to the proposition that the leadership of the A. F. of L. unions is, on the whole, either able or honest. If it were able it would kick out the criminals, and if it were honest it could not co-operate with or even associate with them.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There's a picture called "Married, Pretty and Poor." It's in the limelight.

Anne Shirley is in it, and John Garfield, both of whom are pleasant to have around in any picture. But the reason this picture wins attention is the two young women who aren't playing in it.

Jane Bryan, fresh from a glowing triumph in "We Are Not Alone," took suspension rather than play in it. In course of the suspension period, Jane and a Chicago drugstore executive, Justin W. Dart, must have taken a tip from Jane's film title and decided being alone was a waste of time. They were wed, which left Jane married, pretty, and rich.

Olivia De Havilland, fresh from an equal success in "Gone With the Wind," took suspension rather than play in it. She did not, however, get married.

* * *

This is all very strange. "Married, Pretty and Poor," you naturally assume after all this must be a fore-ordained stinkeroo of a movie. Then you recall that the new film is a re-make of "Saturday's Children," a highly successful play and picture of 11 years back. Then you hear that Garfield, who is particular about his roles, thinks the new script is highly satisfactory and that he's happy about the whole thing. So is Anne Shirley.

Barring the notion that it's salary rather than the particular role that caused the star-studio rifts, you're left with an explanation: every movie player's instant suspicion of re-makes.

Why this should be is easily seen. Say "re-make" to a player and his first reaction is "B" or "quickie." The run-of-the-mine re-make in recent years, has been given a bad odor by the abandon with which producers, stuck for a script, have seized on old properties, refurbished them slightly, and run them through the mill to emerge as minor program fillers.

More often than otherwise, the "epic" of yesterday is given slightly different plot twists — and a lower budget and lesser players—for its second trip to the screen.

The exceptions are the old "colossals" undertaken with even more ballyhoo than originally greeted them. They get top stars, top directors, top budgets, top drum-beating—and are as likely to flop as the untried originals, and even with a harder thud. These have not only the new audiences to combat, but the memories of these audiences' older members.

* * *

In cold fact, however, the age of the story has little to do with its success in re-make. Last year's "Beau Geste" won those critical snickers (although it was a popular success) not because it was an old story but because in its new presentation, it fairly creaked. This year's "Hunchback of Notre Dame" is more impressive spectacle than Lon Chaney's great silent effort offered, and is great in its handling of masses of humanity—but its ultimate success will depend on whether the paying masses care for that sort of thing any more. (Personally, I wish Laughton had worn a veil.)

And if every re-make offered the intelligent approach, the freshness of spirit, that is apparent in "His Girl Friday" (the feminine version of "The Front Page") it wouldn't be long before all the stars clamored for a new chance at old stuff.
